Classification of Risk Factors:

The risk factors are classified as under for the sake of better clarity and increased understanding:

INTERNAL RISKS*BUSINESS RELATED RISKS:

1. Our business is influenced and dependent upon government and its policies, and while changes in these policies could present new challenges, they may also create opportunities for adaptation and growth, impacting our operations and financial performance

At present, a significant portion of the company's revenue is generated from orders placed by government and other key customers. For the financial years ending March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024, and March 31, 2023, the contributions from the company's top 5 and top 10 customers are detailed as follows, based on the restated financials:

(Amount in Rs. lakhs)

Particulars	For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2025		For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2024	For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2023
	Amount	% of Sales	Amount	% of Sales	Amount	% of Sales
Top 5	3393.35	68.86	2,519.46	68	2,478.91	75

The company's business and operational results could be significantly impacted if they are unable to establish and maintain ongoing relationships and secure tenders from the government and other key customers, or if they fail to cultivate relationships with new customers. The loss of a major customer, or a group of key customers, whether due to internal or external factors related to their business, could materially harm the business prospects and financial performance. While the company is committed to fostering long-term relationships with both government and other customers and has successfully maintained positive relationships thus far, they cannot guarantee that this will continue in the future.

The company focus on nurturing long-term relationships with key clients while actively diversifying their customer base through new engagements and geographic expansion. By delivering high-quality, customized solutions and maintaining transparent communication, they strengthen customer loyalty and satisfaction. While a significant portion of their revenue comes from established entities like Indian Railways, they continually explore opportunities to reduce dependency on individual customers, ensuring resilience and minimizing the impact of any potential customer attrition

2. We are highly dependent on our suppliers for uninterrupted supply of Raw-Materials. Any shortfall in the supply of our raw materials, or an increase in our raw material costs and other input costs, may adversely affect the pricing and supply of our products with subsequently having an adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial conditions of our company.

We procure our supply of raw materials from various approved suppliers depending upon the price and quality of raw materials. However, our Top 10 suppliers contribute significantly to supply of raw materials. Raw materials are subject to supply disruptions and price volatility caused by various factors such as commodity market fluctuations, the quality and availability of raw materials, currency fluctuations, consumer demand, changes in government policies and regulatory sanctions. Any disruption of supply of raw materials from these suppliers will adversely affect our operations. The contributions of our top 5 and top 10 suppliers are as follows:

(Rs in Lakhs)

Particulars	For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2025		For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2024		For Financial Year ended on March 31, 2023
	Amount	% of Purchases	Amount	% of Purchases	Amount	% of Purchases
Top 5	1062.80	48.82	559.52	37	1,048.69	58
Top 10	1567.14	71.98	837.14	56	1,250.12	69

To mitigate the risk of dependency on our top suppliers and raw material supply disruptions, we maintain a diversified supplier base and actively evaluate alternative sources to ensure uninterrupted operations. By establishing long-term contracts and fostering strong relationships with our suppliers, we enhance reliability and stability in procurement. Additionally, we continuously monitor market trends, maintain adequate inventory levels, and implement strategic sourcing practices to address price volatility and availability challenges. Our proactive approach ensures operational continuity and minimizes potential impacts from supply disruptions or market fluctuations. Since we deal with approved vendors, we are assured about the quality of raw material at proper time and predetermined rates as per the terms. Furthermore, we have a large number of suppliers available in this industry, hence, loss of any one or more of our suppliers shall not have a major impact on our production and eventually our profitability.

3. Our Company operations require significant amount of working capital for a continuing growth. Our inability to meet our working capital requirements may adversely affect our results of operations

Our Company's business operations require a significant amount of working capital. In our business, working capital is often required to finance the procurement of raw material and for salaries of employees. In the event, we are unable to source the required amount of working capital, we might not be able to efficiently satisfy the demand of our clients in a timely manner or at all. Even if we are able to source the required amount of funds, it would be difficult for us to assure that such funds may or may not be sufficient to meet our cost estimates, which could have adverse effect on our financial conditions and results of operations. There exist substantial requirement of working capital and financing in the form of fund and non-fund based working capital facilities to meet our requirements. The details of our working capital for financial period ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 & March 31, 2023 are as under which is showing continuous increase:

(Amount in Rs Lakhs)

Funding Pattern
Borrowings from Bank	168.16	195.94	393.68
Internal Sources	401.94	616.89	1,108.49

Due to various factors, including certain extraneous factors such as changes in tariff regulations, interest rates, insurance and other costs or borrowing and lending restrictions, if any, we may not be able to finance our working capital needs, or secure other financing when needed, on acceptable commercial terms, or at all, which may impact our company's revenue.

Though the Company has not faced any such challenges in the past, consequently, there could be situations where the total funds available may not be sufficient to fulfil our commitments, and hence we may need to incur additional indebtedness in the future or utilize internal accruals to satisfy our working capital needs.

Going forward we plan to actively manage our working capital requirements through prudent financial planning and by leveraging diversified sources of funding, including both fund-based and non-fund-based working capital facilities. Our established relationships with multiple financial institutions provide us with access to timely funding to support procurement, employee salaries, and other operational needs. Additionally, we plan to focus on optimizing our cash flow by efficiently managing receivables, inventory, and payables to ensure smooth business operations.

4. Our cost of production is exposed to fluctuations in the prices of our goods purchased.

We are exposed to fluctuations in the prices of required goods and may be unable to control factors affecting the price directly or indirectly at which we procure such materials, particularly as we do not enter into any supply agreements with our suppliers and our major requirement is met in the domestic market. The overall cost of purchase of stock in trade during the financial year ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 and March 31, 2023 are Rs. 2177.20 lakhs, Rs. 1,506.17 lakhs and Rs. 1,821.68 lakhs respectively. We may at times also face the risks associated with compensating for or passing on such increase in our cost of production on account of such fluctuations in prices to our customers. Upward fluctuations in the prices of goods purchased may thereby affect our margins and profitability, resulting in a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. However, based on the experience of the promoter and long association in the industry, the Company is well versed to take pro-active decisions.

Diversifying suppliers across regions reduces dependence and enhances supply stability and bargaining power. Financial instruments like futures or options help lock in prices and hedge against increases, ensuring cost predictability. Long-term supplier contracts secure fixed prices and volume discounts, stabilizing costs. Together, these strategies mitigate raw material price volatility, safeguard financial performance, and maintain stable production costs.

5. Our operational performance is vulnerable to adverse weather conditions, which could impede our ability to achieve or maintain profitability. Such challenges could adversely impact our business, particularly concerning the deployment of cables.

Our business operations may be affected by weather conditions which may restrict our ability to carry on activities related to our construction projects such as digging and laying of ducts and cable. Heavy rainfalls or other extreme weather conditions such as cyclones could result in delays or disruptions to our operations during the critical periods of our projects and cause severe damages to our premises and equipment. In particular, the monsoon season may restrict our ability to carry on activities related to our projects which shifts our revenue and accordingly profit recognition to subsequent quarters. Such fluctuations may adversely affect our revenues, cash flows, results of operations and financial conditions.

To address weather-related challenges, we diversify our geographic footprint, deploying cables in regions with varied weather patterns and investing in less weather-prone areas to ensure operational continuity. Our resilient systems use weather-resistant materials, underground installations, and reinforced infrastructure to withstand extreme events. Flexible deployment strategies, such as scheduling operations during favorable conditions and shifting to indoor tasks during adverse weather, enhance agility. Collaborating with weather agencies and leveraging advanced forecasting tools ensures proactive risk management, fostering stability, resilience, and profitability in the optical fiber cable industry.

6. The company relies on third-party service providers for providing labours. Any disruptions or challenges in their ability to meet service expectations may impact the company's operations and performance.

The third-party labour providers are crucial to ensuring the timely and efficient execution of complex projects that require specialized skills and expertise. Any disruptions, such as labor shortages, delays, or failure to meet performance standards, could significantly impact the company's ability to deliver projects on time and within budget. Furthermore, if the third-party providers fail to maintain the required level of skill or quality, it could result in subpar installation or service delivery, leading to customer dissatisfaction, potential rework costs, and damage to the company's reputation.

The company has established strong relationships with multiple reputable service providers to ensure flexibility and continuity in its labour supply. The company conducts rigorous vetting and ongoing performance assessments of its third-party labour providers to ensure they meet strict quality, safety, and regulatory standards. The company invests in training programs to ensure that both its internal team and third-party labourers are well-equipped with the latest industry knowledge and technical skills. By diversifying labour sources, maintaining close oversight, and fostering long-term partnerships with reliable providers, the company aims to minimize the impact of any potential labour disruptions and maintain operational efficiency.

7. Our industry is labour intensive, and our business operations may be materially adversely affected by strikes, work stoppages or increased wage demands by our employees or those of our suppliers.

Our labor-intensive industry relies heavily on the workforce for project execution and manufacturing operations. While we have not faced major disruptions due to workforce issues, we remain prepared to manage unforeseen challenges effectively. Our proactive approach ensures prompt resolution, minimizing impacts on operations and costs. Compliance with India's stringent labor laws, including those governing wages, working hours, conditions, and retrenchment obligations, reinforces our commitment to employee welfare while mitigating risks associated with labor regulations. This resilience positions us to maintain efficient operations even amidst potential challenges.

We foster positive labor relations through open communication, proactive issue resolution, and skilled management equipped to handle negotiations and conflicts. To further mitigate labor-related risks, we outsource workforce requirements to agencies, ensuring flexibility and continuity in operations. Empowering employees through decision-making involvement and recognition fosters a culture of respect, transparency, and inclusivity, enhancing ownership and commitment. These strategies collectively reduce labor conflicts, strengthen operational resilience, and safeguard against disruptions.

8. Delays in meeting project deadlines can result in financial penalties as stipulated in contracts, potentially harming revenue and client relationships.

Delays in meeting project deadlines when laying optical fiber cables represent a significant business risk, as many contracts include strict completion timelines with financial penalties for late delivery of the project. If a company fails to meet these deadlines due to unforeseen challenges, such as labor shortages, supply chain disruptions, or adverse weather conditions, it could face substantial fines or loss of revenue as outlined in the contract terms. Beyond the immediate financial impact, such delays can harm the company's reputation, erode client trust, and jeopardize future business opportunities. Clients may perceive the company as unreliable or inefficient, leading them to seek alternative providers for future projects. Furthermore, repeated delays or failure to adhere to timelines can result in negative word-of-mouth and damage to the company's long-term competitiveness in the market.

In the past, the company has encountered penalties for delays in site handovers. To address this, we break projects into manageable milestones with realistic timelines, enabling close progress monitoring and early identification of delays. Advanced project management tools are utilized to track progress, allocate resources efficiently, and anticipate bottlenecks, ensuring adherence to schedules. Building buffer periods into project timelines provides flexibility to manage unforeseen challenges. Clear and continuous communication with stakeholders—clients, suppliers, and contractors—aligns expectations and resolves issues promptly. Ensuring the availability of skilled labor, equipment, and materials further minimizes disruptions, reducing the risk of delays.

9. We have in the past entered into related party transactions and may continue to do so in the future.

Our Company has entered into transactions with our Promoter, Promoter Group Entities and Group

10. We derive a significant portion of our revenue from government contracts for which we deposit a certain amount as Earnest Money Deposit (EMD) and Security Deposit. The contracts are prone to delays and longer working capital cycles, which could in turn adversely affect our business and results of operations.

The Indian Railways and other government bodies typically take a longer period than corporates in the private sector to make payment for services rendered. Our reliance on contracts with government bodies may lead to a longer working capital cycle. There is no assurance that we will be able to obtain payment from the Indian Railways and other government bodies in a timely fashion, or, if bad debts fall due, that we will be able to enforce repayment for such amounts. We deposit a certain amount as Earnest Money Deposit (EMD) as security for such contracts. We have incurred EMD of Rs. 143.10 lakhs, Rs 94.50 lakhs, and Rs 169.87 lakhs during the financial year ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 and March 31, 2023 respectively. We have also given certain amount as Security Deposit amounting to Rs. 164.36 lakhs, Rs 82.93 lakhs and Rs 108.34 lakhs during the financial year ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 and March 31, 2023 respectively.

Our Company has established processes to manage the extended payment cycles associated with government contracts, including those with Indian Railways. We maintain robust financial planning and ensure adequate working capital to address delays in payment. Additionally, we have a history of recovering Earnest Money Deposits (EMD) and Security Deposits upon project completion. Our prudent financial management and established relationships with government bodies reduce the risks associated with delayed payments and ensure business continuity, minimizing any adverse impact on our financial condition and operations.

11. The business depends on our Senior Management. Any change in our Senior Management may affect our business growth.

The experience of our senior management has been critical to our success and business growth. Their knowledge of the market that we operate in, and the business operations have ensured our growth in the business. The replacement of senior management may not be straightforward or achievable in a timely manner as they have years of knowledge and experience in this business, as the business we operate needs a specific knowledge and skill sets. As a result, any loss of the services of any of our senior management could materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition, and results of operations.

12. Political, economic or other factors that are beyond our control may have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

The Indian economy and its securities markets are influenced by economic developments and volatility in securities markets in other countries. Investors' reactions to developments in one country may have adverse effects on the market price of securities of companies located in other countries, including India. Negative economic developments, such as rising fiscal or trade deficits, or a default on national debt, in other emerging market countries may also affect investor confidence and cause increased volatility in Indian securities markets and indirectly affect the Indian economy in general. Any of these factors could depress economic activity and restrict our access to capital, which could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations and reduce the price of our Equity Shares. Any financial disruption could have an adverse effect on our business, future financial performance, shareholders' equity and the price of our Equity Shares.

We are dependent on domestic, regional and global economic and market conditions. Our performance, growth and market price of our Equity Shares are and will be dependent to a large extent on the health of the economy in which we operate. There have been periods of slowdown in the economic growth of India. Demand for our products may be adversely affected by an economic downturn in domestic, regional and global economies.

Economic growth in the countries in which we operate is affected by various factors including domestic consumption and savings, global economic uncertainty and liquidity crisis, volatility in exchange currency rates, and annual rainfall which affects agricultural production. Consequently, any future slowdown in the Indian economy could harm our business, results of operations and financial condition. Also, a change in the government or a change in the economic and deregulation policies could adversely affect economic conditions prevalent in the areas in which we operate in general and our business in particular and high rates of inflation in India could increase our costs without proportionately increasing our revenues, and as such decrease our operating margins.

13. Insurance policies may exclude certain losses or risks, potentially leaving the company vulnerable to unexpected events or financial liabilities.

A significant risk arises from the limitations and exclusions in insurance policies, where certain types of losses or risks may not be covered, leaving the business vulnerable. These exclusions can leave the company exposed to significant financial vulnerabilities in the event of unforeseen circumstances such as natural disasters, cyberattacks, regulatory changes, or specific operational failures. When an incident occurs that falls outside the coverage scope, the business may be forced to absorb the full financial impact, which can result in substantial unplanned expenses. The lack of coverage for these risks could not only deplete company resources but also affect its ability to meet obligations, maintain cash flow, or recover operations quickly. Furthermore, the absence of protection against these specific risks may damage our reputation, erode customer trust, and strain relationships with investors or stakeholders.

We should conduct comprehensive risk assessments to identify and prioritize potential threats that may fall outside of standard insurance coverage, such as cyberattacks, natural disasters, or emerging operational risks. With this information, businesses can seek supplemental or specialized insurance policies to cover gaps, like cyber liability insurance or business interruption coverage. Additionally, companies should consider building a contingency fund to provide financial cushioning in case of unforeseen losses. Regularly reviewing and adjusting insurance policies ensures that coverage remains relevant and up-to-date with evolving risks. Moreover, implementing robust risk management strategies, such as preventative measures, employee training, and emergency response plans, can significantly reduce the likelihood of major incidents. By adopting these strategies, we can better prepare for unforeseen circumstances, minimize financial exposure, and maintain operational resilience even in the face of excluded risks.

14. Investments in technology might not always yield the expected outcomes, potentially leading to underutilized resources, missed opportunities, or challenges in realizing the desired operational improvements.

As the industry evolves rapidly, there is always the possibility that technological advancements may not integrate as seamlessly as expected, resulting in underutilized resources such as equipment, time, or skilled personnel which could prevent us from fully capitalizing on emerging opportunities, such as new business avenues or market expansion. Moreover, the anticipated operational improvements—such as enhanced efficiency, performance, or scalability which might not materialize, leading to delays in project delivery or an inability to meet client demands. Consequently, we may face competitive disadvantages, reduced profitability, and a strained reputation if the technology investments do not translate into tangible value.

We can adopt an approach that emphasizes thorough planning, continuous evaluation, and adaptability which includes conducting detailed market research and feasibility studies before committing to new technologies, ensuring alignment with long-term business goals. Regular performance assessments and pilot testing can help identify potential issues early on, allowing for course corrections before full-scale implementation. Fostering a culture of innovation and agility within the team can facilitate the smooth integration of new technologies, enabling quick adaptation if initial outcomes do not meet expectations. Establishing strategic partnerships with technology providers and staying abreast of industry trends will also provide insights into future developments and help us stay ahead of market shifts. By maintaining a balanced approach to investment and ensuring robust risk management practices, we can reduce the likelihood of wasted resources and missed opportunities, ultimately improving its ability to achieve the desired operational improvements.

15. Inadequate billing, credit control, and customer management processes may result in inefficiencies, potentially affecting revenue flow and customer satisfaction, and requiring attention to maintain smooth operations and financial health.

If billing processes are not fully streamlined, our company may face occasional delays or discrepancies in invoicing, which could create temporary disruptions in cash flow and make it more difficult to cover operational costs or invest in new technologies and projects. In industries like telecom, where rapid innovation and technological advancement are key to staying competitive, any delays in invoicing or financial collection could hinder our ability to fund new initiatives or upgrade existing infrastructure. Moreover, when working with large clients like the railways, whose contracts often involve extended payment terms, inconsistent credit control could lead to delays in receiving payments or even challenges in managing collections effectively. This might not only impact cash flow but could also strain relationships with key customers, potentially leading to misunderstandings or frustrations. However, these challenges also provide a valuable opportunity for us to assess and improve our billing, credit control, and customer management processes.

Our company can invest in advanced billing software that automates invoicing and ensures accurate, timely billing for large clients like the railways, reducing the chance of discrepancies or delays. Streamlining the credit control process through regular monitoring of accounts receivable, setting clear payment terms, and establishing proactive communication channels with clients can help manage collections more effectively, ensuring timely payments even when contracts involve extended payment cycles. Furthermore, a customer management system that integrates client interactions, project updates, and feedback mechanisms can improve customer satisfaction by addressing concerns promptly and maintaining strong relationships. Regular training for staff handling these processes, coupled with real-time tracking and analytics, can further enhance efficiency and reduce the risk of inefficiencies. By establishing these best practices and technology solutions, our company can maintain smooth operations, improve cash flow, and ensure client satisfaction, all of which are crucial for long-term growth and success, particularly when working with key stakeholders like the railways.

16. Challenges in meeting service level commitments may arise due to unforeseen circumstances, potentially affecting customer satisfaction and requiring attention to maintain high standards of service delivery.

The complexity of projects, including factors such as supply chain challenges, occasional equipment issues, staffing changes, or unforeseen technical hurdles, can sometimes lead to delays or adjustments in project timelines and service quality. While these situations can present temporary challenges, they also offer an opportunity to demonstrate the company's resilience and adaptability in finding solutions. By addressing these issues promptly and effectively, we can maintain our ability to meet deadlines and performance standards, which are crucial for building and preserving strong customer relationships. Clients in the telecom sector, such as large organizations depending on reliable network operations, will appreciate the company's proactive approach to resolving any issues and ensuring minimal disruption.

Adopting a robust project management system that tracks project progress, identifies potential bottlenecks early, and enables real-time adjustments can help ensure timely delivery. Fostering strong relationships with suppliers and maintaining alternative sources for critical components can minimize the impact of supply chain disruptions. Investing in predictive maintenance for equipment and continuously upgrading the technology infrastructure can reduce the likelihood of unexpected failures. The cross-training of staff to handle different aspects of the project can help manage staffing shortages more effectively and maintain a flexible workforce. Clear communication channels with clients are also essential for setting realistic expectations, providing regular updates, and addressing concerns promptly can build trust, even if challenges arise. Lastly, having contingency plans in place for unexpected technical issues or project delays will enable the company to quickly adapt, ensuring that service level agreements (SLAs) are met or renegotiated where necessary. By embedding these risk management practices into its operations, we can not only minimize the impact of unforeseen circumstances but also enhance customer satisfaction, maintain high service standards, and strengthen long-term client relationships.

17. The company's substantial revenue generation from key states, primarily Telangana and West Bengal, indicates a strong regional market presence, but also exposes it to regional market fluctuation.

The company's substantial revenue generation from key states, particularly Telangana and West Bengal, underscores its strong regional market presence and highlights the success it has achieved within these specific regions. However, this concentration of revenue from a limited number of states exposes the company to regional market fluctuations. Any shifts in economic conditions, changes in government policies or regulations, natural disasters, or social and political instability within these states could have a direct and significant impact on the company's overall performance. This reliance on just a few key regions means that a downturn or disruption in either Telangana or West Bengal could lead to a disproportionate effect on the company's revenue stream.

Revenue Breakup
Amount in Rs. Lakhs
Particulars	For the FY ended on March 31, 2025	%	For the FY ended on March 31, 2024	%	For the FY ended on March 31, 2023	%	For the FY ended on March 31, 2022	%
Telangana	145.74	3.49	828.62	22.28	812.37	24.5	381.12	11.72
West Bengal	1314.11	31.47	799.99	21.51	443.28	13.4	723.96	22.27
Rest Of India	2715.95	65.04	2,090.15	56.2	2,054.41	62.1	2,146.26	66.01

The company can pursue several strategies to diversify its market presence and reduce its vulnerability to regional fluctuations. One effective approach would be to expand its operations into additional regions, thus spreading the revenue base across a broader geographic area and reducing the reliance on any single state which involve targeting emerging markets or regions with stable economic growth. The company can strengthen its market research capabilities to closely monitor the economic, political, and social developments in Telangana, West Bengal, and other regions to anticipate potential risks. Building stronger relationships with local governments, adapting to regional consumer preferences, and ensuring flexibility in supply chain management would also help cushion against unforeseen disruptions in these key states. By implementing these strategies, the company can create a more balanced and resilient structure, safeguarding itself against regional volatility while continuing to leverage its strong market presence in Telangana and West Bengal

18. High capital expenditure requirements highlight the company's focus on growth and long-term infrastructure development. While this investment is crucial for expansion, it requires careful financial planning to ensure continued operational flexibility and responsiveness to market needs.

High capital expenditure requirements underscore the company's strategic focus on growth and long-term infrastructure development, reflecting its ambition to expand and enhance operational capabilities. While these investments are essential for supporting future growth, they also present a potential business risk, as they require significant upfront capital outlay. This could put pressure on the company's cash flow and financial resources, particularly in periods of economic uncertainty or slower-than-expected market performance. As a result, careful financial planning is critical to ensure that the company maintains adequate liquidity and operational flexibility, enabling it to adapt to changing market conditions or unexpected challenges. If not managed effectively, the heavy capital investment could limit the company's ability to pivot quickly or respond to market dynamics, potentially impacting short-term agility and profitability.

The company can implement a range of financial strategies that promote efficient use of resources while ensuring flexibility for future growth. One key approach is to adopt a phased investment strategy, where capital expenditures are spread over time based on project milestones and evolving market conditions which allows the company to maintain better cash flow management and adjust to any changes in the business environment. The company can explore alternative financing options, such as debt or strategic partnerships, to reduce the strain on internal resources and maintain liquidity. Implementing robust financial forecasting and scenario planning will further ensure that the company remains prepared for unexpected changes in the market, enabling it to adjust its investments as needed without compromising overall strategic objectives. By closely monitoring and adjusting capital allocation in response to performance and market trends, the company can ensure a balanced approach to expansion, maintaining the flexibility needed to stay agile in a dynamic business environment.

19. The fragility of optical fiber cables requires careful handling and maintenance to avoid potential damage, which could lead to higher operational costs and downtime. Ensuring proper care is crucial to maintaining the reliability and longevity of the infrastructure.

The fragility of optical fiber cables represents an even minor mishandling or lack of proper maintenance can lead to significant damage, causing operational disruptions. Optical fibers are vital to the company's network infrastructure and service delivery, but their sensitivity to bending, pressure, and environmental factors makes them more prone to damage compared to other cable types. A breakage or degradation in the cable could result in costly repairs and downtime, which in turn could lead to lost revenue opportunities, reduced customer satisfaction, and potential service level agreement (SLA) breaches. The need for specialized handling and maintenance further increases operational costs, as the company must allocate additional resources for repairs, replacement, and preventive measures to avoid future incidents. Furthermore, delays in fixing damaged cables can impact overall network performance, potentially affecting the company's competitiveness and reliability in the market. Ensuring that the optical fiber infrastructure is consistently monitored, maintained, and protected requires a structured, well-invested approach that includes employee training, the use of protective materials, and regular inspections. Without these safeguards, the company could face repeated service disruptions, incurring unnecessary expenses and risking long-term damage to its reputation in the marketplace.

Investing in high-quality, protective materials such as cable conduits and covers can shield the cables from physical damage, reducing the likelihood of issues arising due to environmental factors or accidental mishandling. Establishing clear handling procedures and guidelines for employees can significantly reduce the risk of breakages during installation, maintenance, or transport. Regular training programs for staff will ensure that everyone is well-equipped to handle the cables with care and maintain them effectively, promoting best practices across all operations. The company can implement a routine inspection and monitoring system to identify potential wear or early signs of damage, allowing for timely interventions before more severe issues occur. By integrating these preventive measures, the company can minimize the risk of costly repairs, reduce downtime, and extend the lifespan of its optical fiber infrastructure.

20. Intense competition in the market poses a risk to the company's market share and profitability. The company must continuously innovate and differentiate its services to stay ahead of competitors and maintain customer loyalty.

Intense competition puts pressure on the company to maintain or grow its market share while protecting its profitability. With numerous competitors vying for the same customer base, the company may face pricing pressures, reduced margins, and the potential loss of customers to rival firms offering similar or better value propositions. As competitors introduce new services, the company must consistently differentiate its services to stay relevant in the market. Failing to do so could result in declining sales, decreased brand loyalty, and a weakened competitive position. With the rapid pace of industry changes, there is a constant need to adapt to evolving customer expectations and technological advancements. Without a continuous focus on innovation and differentiation, the company risks falling behind in a highly competitive environment, affecting its long-term sustainability and growth.

The company can implement a multi-faceted strategy focused on innovation, customer engagement, and operational efficiency. First, investing in research and development to create unique services that differentiate the company from its competitors is crucial. By offering cutting-edge solutions or value-added features, the company can establish a competitive edge that appeals to both new and existing customers. Fostering strong relationships with customers through exceptional service, personalized experiences, and loyalty programs can help build long-term customer retention, reducing the likelihood of customers switching to competitors. The company can also focus on improving its operational efficiency, lowering costs, and optimizing its supply chain to remain competitive in terms of pricing while maintaining profitability. Regular market analysis and competitor benchmarking are essential to staying informed about industry trends, customer needs, and competitor strategies. By staying agile and responsive to market changes, the company can proactively adapt its business model, ensuring it stays ahead of competitors and preserves its market position.

21. The rapid advancement of technology presents a risk as the company must continually invest in upgrading its systems and processes to stay competitive. Failure to keep pace with technological innovations could result in outdated offerings and diminished market relevance.

The company must consistently invest in upgrading its systems, infrastructure, and processes to remain competitive. Technology evolves at an accelerating rate, with new innovations, tools, and solutions constantly emerging, which means the company must stay ahead of trends to meet customer expectations and industry standards. Failing to keep pace with technological advancements could result in the company's offerings becoming outdated, leading to a loss of market relevance and customer interest. This could also create operational inefficiencies, as older systems may not integrate well with newer technologies or may be less secure, increasing the risk of disruptions. Moreover, competitors who embrace new technologies may gain a significant edge, attracting more customers and leaving the company behind.

Regularly assessing emerging technologies and trends to ensure that the company is aware of advancements that could enhance its products, services, or operational efficiency. By allocating resources to research and development, the company can explore opportunities for integrating the latest technological solutions into its systems and processes, keeping its offerings fresh and relevant to customer needs. Fostering a culture of agility and adaptability within the organization will enable the company to respond quickly to technological changes and adopt new tools and platforms as needed. Strategic partnerships with technology providers, as well as collaboration with industry experts, can also help the company gain early access to cutting-edge solutions and stay ahead of competitors. Furthermore, investing in employee training and development ensures that the workforce is equipped to work with the latest technologies, enhancing productivity and innovation. Through these efforts, the company can not only mitigate the risk of falling behind but also position itself as a leader in adopting and leveraging new technologies for sustained growth and market relevance.

In addition, any delay or failure on our part to supply the required quantity or quality of products, within the time stipulated by our agreements, to our customers may in turn cause delay in payment or refusal of payment by the customer. Such defaults/delays by our customers in meeting their payment obligations to us may have a material effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Our cash flow is getting impacted due to the receivables which is mainly due to our invoice amount blocked with Indian railways.

For this we have Implemented robust cash flow monitoring and forecasting systems to identify potential shortfalls in advance. This allows for proactive management of cash flow through adjustments to expenses or capital allocation also Efficient management of accounts receivable is essential for ensuring timely payment from customers and negotiate with suppliers and vendors for extended payment terms to improve cash flow. Efficient management of working capital, including inventory, accounts receivable, and accounts payable, can significantly improve our cash flow from operations.

23. Our operations are subject to physical hazards and similar risks that could expose us to material liabilities, loss in revenues and increased expenses.

A principal component of our strategy is to continue to grow by expanding the size and geographical scope of our businesses. This growth strategy will place significant demands on our management, financial and other resources. It will require us to continuously develop and improve our operational, financial, and internal controls. Continuous expansion increases the challenges involved in financial management, recruitment, training and retaining high quality human resources, preserving our culture, values, and entrepreneurial environment, and developing and improving our internal administrative infrastructure. Any inability on our part to manage such growth could disrupt our business prospects, impact our financial condition, and adversely affect our results of operations.

Conducting thorough risk assessments to identify and evaluate potential physical hazards and risks is essential and establishing robust safety protocols and procedures is critical to minimizing the likelihood of accidents and mitigating their impact. 28. Our company's financial health and prospects could face significant challenges if we are unable to secure new vendor projects or explore fresh routes for expanding our optical fiber cable networks.

We are a telecom infrastructure company with a focus on laying duct and optic fiber for Telecommunication and railway companies and operation and maintenance of the cables. Our business model involves undertaking vendor projects where we undertake the cable and duct laying work for the telecom operators. Vendor projects are typically awarded based on the quality of work performed, timely execution and price competitiveness. The financial stability and future growth prospects of our company are intricately linked to our ability to secure new vendor projects and diversify our network. Securing new vendor projects is vital to sustaining revenue streams and ensuring profitability. To mitigate the risk associated with a limited number of projects, we can adopt strategies such as proactive market research and engagement to identify emerging opportunities and build strong relationships with potential clients. Additionally, investing in marketing and networking efforts can enhance visibility and attract new project opportunities.

Expanding optical fiber networks by targeting underserved markets and investing strategically in infrastructure is vital for growth and resilience. Collaborating with governments and industry stakeholders streamlines access and regulatory processes, while advanced mapping tools enhance route planning efficiency. Pursuing new vendor projects and expanding network routes mitigates growth stagnation risks, strengthening financial health and positioning in the dynamic optical fiber industry.

29. Our lenders have charge over our movable and immovable properties in respect of finance availed by us. Some charges are due to be filed by company.

We have secured our lenders by creating a charge over our movable and immovable properties in respect of loans / facilities availed by us from banks and financial institutions. The total amounts outstanding and payable by us as secured loans were Rs.440.56 lakhs, Rs. 246.51 lakhs and Rs. 235.57 lakhs during the financial year ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 and March 31, 2023. In the event we default in repayment of the loans / facilities availed by us and any interest thereof, our properties may be forfeited by lenders, which in turn could have significant adverse effect on business, financial condition or results of operations. For further information on the “Financial Indebtedness” please refer to page 346 of this Red Herring Prospectus.

We maintain a disciplined approach to financial management, ensuring timely repayment of loans and adherence to all terms and conditions of our credit facilities to mitigate default risks. Additionally, we closely monitor our debt obligations and cash flow to align with our repayment schedules. Our strategy includes maintaining strong relationships with lenders, renegotiating terms if necessary, and leveraging our robust operational performance to meet financial commitments.

30. Trade Receivables forms a major part of our current assets. Failure to manage our trade receivables could have an adverse effect on our sales, profitability, cash flow and liquidity.

The results of operations of our business are dependent on our ability to effectively manage our trade receivables. Managing trade receivables effectively is crucial for maintaining healthy cash flow and ensuring the financial stability of a business. During financial year ended March 31, 2025, March 31, 2024 and March 31, 2023 trade receivables were ₹ 1,190.58 lakhs, ₹ 870.95 lakhs and ₹ 796.17 lakhs respectively.

For properly managing trade receivables, we conduct a thorough credit assessment on potential customers before extending credit to them. This involves reviewing their credit history, financial statements, and references to assess their creditworthiness and also maintain good relationships with customers to encourage timely payments.

We prioritize the effective management of our trade receivables to ensure healthy cash flow and financial stability. A significant portion of our trade receivables arises from projects with Indian Railways, which retains 10% to 30% of invoice amounts as deposits, released only upon project completion. We maintain strong relationships with other customers, including Indian Railways, to encourage timely payments and ensure efficient collection processes. These measures help us manage receivables effectively while addressing the unique challenges posed by longer payment cycles in government contracts.

31. Our Tax Auditors in the past has issued certain qualifications with respect to deduction of TDS for contractor payments

Our Company works with numerous small contractors and subcontractors for pan-India projects. Delayed or improperly formatted invoice submissions, coupled with potential errors by our accounts and taxation teams at project sites, have led to inaccuracies in Tax Deducted at Source (TDS) deductions, including deductions at incorrect rates. Our Tax Auditors, in their reports for FY 2021-22, FY 2022-23, and FY 2023-24, noted observations under Section 194C of the Income Tax Act, 1961, regarding the verification of TDS deductions. However, they raised no issues regarding the timely deposit of TDS within the stipulated deadlines. Such observations may indicate non-compliance risks, potentially leading to penalties or other liabilities under tax laws, which could impact our financial performance and reputation.

We will be enhancing our internal Controls Systems to track all invoices and also strengthening manpower in our taxation team at site levels to ensure better coordination between the central and site teams. We have implemented stringent measures, including enhanced training for our accounts and taxation teams to ensure strict compliance with TDS regulations under Section 194C of the Income Tax Act, 1961. We are committed to ensure high standards of corporate governance in our organization. By adopting these measures, we aim to minimize the likelihood of future discrepancies, ensure timely and accurate TDS deductions, and enhance overall compliance with tax laws.

32. We have taken guarantees from Promoters and members of Promoter Group in relation to debt facilities provided to us.

We have taken guarantees from Promoters and members of Promoter Group in relation to our secured debt facilities availed from our Bankers. In an event any of these persons withdraw or terminate its/their guarantees, the lender for such facilities may ask for alternate guarantees, repayment of amounts outstanding under such facilities, or even terminate such facilities. In the event of challenges in obtaining satisfactory guarantees, we are prepared to explore alternative solutions, including the possibility of repaying outstanding amounts under existing facilities or seeking additional sources of capital. This proactive approach positions us to address potential financial hurdles effectively, contributing to the resilience of our financial condition. For more information, please see the chapter titled “Financial Indebtedness” beginning on page 346 of this Red Herring Prospectus.

33. Our company has availed certain loans from various body corporates which may be recalled at any time.

Our Company has availed certain loans of which an amount of ₹499.78 lakhs is outstanding as on March 31, 2025, which may be recalled at any time since the loans are repayable on demand. In the event, any of such lenders seek a repayment of any these loans, our Company would need to find alternative sources of financing, which may not be available on commercially reasonable terms, or at all. If we are unable to arrange for any such financing arrangements, we may not have adequate working capital to complete our ongoing orders. However, Company has managed to repay their loan on demand and have intentions to continue doing so through alternate means. Therefore, any such demand shall not adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations. For further details, see “Financial Indebtedness” on page no. 346 of this Red Herring Prospectus.

We proactively manage our financial obligations and maintain sufficient liquidity to address loan repayment demands promptly. We diversify our funding sources to ensure adequate working capital availability for ongoing operations. These measures minimize potential disruptions, ensuring that any demand for loan repayment does not adversely affect our business, financial condition, or operational results.

Any revision in the estimates may require us to reschedule our expenditure and may have a bearing on our expected revenues and earnings. We propose to utilize the Net Proceeds for purposes identified in the Chapter titled “Objects of the Offer – Requirement of Funds and Utilization of Net Offer Proceeds” on page 141 of this Red Herring Prospectus.

Further, our Company shall inform about material deviations in the utilization of Issue proceeds to the NSE and shall also simultaneously make the material deviations / adverse comments of the audit committee public.

36. Technology failures or Cyber-attacks or other security breaches could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operation or financial condition.

The success of our businesses depends in part upon our ability to effectively deploy, implement and use information technology systems and advanced technology initiatives in a cost effective and timely basis. Our computer networks may be vulnerable to unauthorised access, computer hacking, computer viruses, worms, malicious applications and other security problems caused by unauthorised access to, or improper use of, systems by our employees, subcontractors or third-party vendors. Any systems failure or security breach or lapse on our part or on the part of our employees and other ecosystem participants that results in the release of user data could harm our reputation and brand and, consequently, our business, in addition to exposing us to potential legal liability. Any such legal proceedings or actions may subject us to significant penalties and negative publicity, require us to change our business practices, increase our costs and severely disrupt our business.

Therefore, we have installed anti-virus software to prevent our systems and infrastructure from being infected and crippled by computer viruses. All our internet facing servers installed at all our data centers as well as at all our offices are also secured with firewalls and intrusion preventions systems to prevent hacking. By allocating resources to invest in robust cybersecurity measures, including firewalls, encryption, intrusion detection systems, and antivirus software. Regularly update and patch systems to address vulnerabilities and stay ahead of emerging threats. Conducting regular risk assessments to identify potential vulnerabilities and threats to our technology infrastructure and develop and implement risk management strategies to mitigate these risks, including contingency plans and incident response protocols. Encrypting sensitive data both in transit and at rest to protect against unauthorized access and implementing regular data backups and storage redundancy to ensure data integrity and availability in the event of a security incident or data breach. Ensuring compliance with applicable laws, regulations, and industry standards governing cybersecurity, data privacy, and information security. Staying abreast of regulatory developments and requirements to avoid legal and regulatory penalties associated with non-compliance. By providing regular updates and reports to the board of directors and executive leadership on cybersecurity risks, initiatives, and performance metrics and foster a culture of cybersecurity governance and accountability at the highest levels of the organization. This strengthens our resilience and safeguards our reputation, assets, and stakeholder trust in an increasingly digital and interconnected business environment.

37. Unpredictable price variations changes may complicate financial planning and pricing strategies, potentially leading to inconsistent profit levels.

The cost of raw materials can fluctuate due to a variety of factors, including global supply chain disruptions, geopolitical tensions, or changes in demand across multiple industries. These price variations can create challenges in financial planning, as the company may struggle to accurately forecast project costs, particularly in long-term contracts where pricing stability is crucial. Unforeseen increases in material costs can lead to budget overruns, diminishing profit margins or forcing the company to absorb additional costs without passing them on to clients, potentially damaging relationships or reducing competitiveness. This volatility complicates pricing strategies, making it harder to set consistent and competitive rates for clients across different sectors. The result is often inconsistent profit levels, making it difficult to maintain stable cash flows, secure financing, or invest in future projects.

In the past, the company encountered a situation where they learned about an upcoming price hike in raw materials, prompting them to make a timely purchase on the same day at the lower current price, securing cost savings before the increase took effect. One of the effective approaches is to establish long-term, flexible contracts with suppliers, including clauses that allow for price adjustments based on market fluctuations. This helps ensure cost predictability, reducing the risk of sudden price hikes disrupting financial planning. Companies can diversify their supplier base to avoid over-reliance on a single source, which can provide leverage to negotiate better pricing and reduce the impact of supply chain disruptions. Regularly reviewing and updating cost structures, incorporating contingency buffers in project budgets, and adopting lean operational practices can also help to absorb unexpected cost increases without significantly affecting profitability.

38. Liquid damage can lead to costly repairs, operational downtime, and inventory loss, disrupting business operations.

The potential for liquid damage, particularly in areas prone to flooding or exposure to moisture, if water or other liquids infiltrate the underground conduits or cable casings, it can cause corrosion or short-circuiting of the cables, resulting in costly repairs and replacement of damaged infrastructure. This disruption not only leads to operational downtime but also delays service delivery to clients, impacting the company's reputation and reliability. Additionally, liquid exposure can damage inventory, such as backup components or spare parts stored at the site, further escalating financial losses. The combined effects of these risks can create a ripple effect, harming client relationships, reducing future business opportunities, and increasing insurance premiums due to the heightened risk profile.

In the event of significant water damage, the company may face additional costs associated with the cleanup and restoration of affected areas, which can be both time-consuming and labor-intensive. This type of disruption also has a cascading effect on service continuity for other companies that rely on the optical fiber network, leading to a loss of trust and possible contractual penalties for service level agreement (SLA) breaches. In some cases, the company might be held liable for indirect financial losses incurred by its clients due to network downtimes or delays, which can further tarnish its business reputation.

In the past, the company faced penalties due to liquid damage. To mitigate this risk, we use high-quality, waterproof materials and protective coatings, and prioritize well-drained or underground cable installations. Flood barriers, moisture detection sensors, and regular maintenance help prevent damage. Contingency plans, including redundant fiber routes and critical component inventory, ensure business continuity. Additionally, we train laborers effectively and invest in advanced equipment to enhance underground visibility. These measures safeguard assets, reduce financial and operational risks, and bolster reliability and reputation.

39. Our ability to pay any dividends will depend upon future earnings, financial condition, cash flows, working capital requirements and capital expenditures

Our Company has no formal dividend policy. The amount of future dividend payments by us, if any, will depend on a number of factors, including but not limited to outlook for the economy, outlook for the industry, the business environment for our Company's business, the profitability of our Company, capital requirements for future expansion plans, rate of dividend distribution tax, restrictive covenants under loans or financing agreements which our Company is currently availing of or may enter in to finance our fund requirements for our business activities, contractual obligations, applicable legal restrictions and overall financial position of our Company.

We may decide to retain all of our Company's earnings to finance the development and expansion of our Company's business and therefore, our Company may not declare dividends on the Equity Shares. Further, the amounts paid as dividends in the past are not necessarily indicative of our Company's dividend policy or dividend amounts, if any, in the future. For details of amounts paid as dividends in the past, see "Dividend Policy" on page 292 Of this Red Herring Prospectus

40. Any legal and regulatory changes in the future could have a negative impact on the Issuer's results of operations and financial condition.

Future government policies and changes in laws and regulations in India and comments, statements or policy changes by any regulator, including but not limited to the SEBI or the RBI, as well as any future government policies and changes in laws and regulations in other countries where the Issuer has a significant presence may adversely affect the Issuer's financial results and operation, and restrict the Issuer's ability to do business in its target markets. The timing and content of any new law or regulation is not within the Issuer's control and such new law, regulation, comment, statement or policy change could have an adverse effect on its business, results of operations and financial condition.

41. There has been instances in the past where our Company failed to file statutory forms with the ROC, in compliance Act, 2013/1956

Our Company has not filed Form CHG-1/Form 8 for registering a charge with the RoC in respect of the loans availed by our Company from HDFC Bank, Form DPT 3 for the period of 2020-2021 not filed by the Company. No show cause notice in respect to the above has been received by our Company till date and no penalty or fine has been imposed by any regulatory authority in respect to the same. It cannot be assured, that there will not be such instances in the future or our Company will not commit any further defaults in relation to its reporting requirements, or any penalty or fine will not be imposed by any regulatory authority in respect to the same. The happening of such event may cause a material effect on our results of operations and financial position.

With the appointment of a new Company Secretary and experienced directors overseeing due diligence and compliances, we are strengthening our commitment to regulatory adherence. While these measures significantly enhance our capabilities, it's important to note that we cannot guarantee immunity from regulatory actions. However, we are confident in our ability to effectively defend against any regulatory proceedings, leveraging our strengthened team and proactive compliance measures to address and mitigate potential challenges

INDUSTRY RISKS

42. Changing laws, rules and regulations and legal uncertainties, including adverse application of tax laws, may adversely affect our business and financial performance.

Our business and industry are regulated by different laws, rules and regulations framed by the Central and State Government. The regulatory and policy environment in which we operate is evolving and subject to change. These changes may pose challenges to our business, impacting our operational results and future prospects. It's imperative that we remain agile in our response to and compliance with any shifts in applicable laws and policies. Our business and financial performance could be adversely affected by any unexpected or onerous requirements or regulations resulting from the amendment of these laws on a short notice or any changes in laws or interpretation of existing laws, or the promulgation of new laws, rules and regulations relating to GST.

43. A slowdown in economic growth in India may adversely affect our business, financial condition, cash flows, results of operations and other prospects.

We are dependent on domestic, regional and global economic and market conditions. Our performance, growth and market price of our Equity Shares are and will be dependent to a large extent on the health of the economy in which we operate. There have been periods of slowdown in the economic growth of India. Demand for our products may be adversely affected by an economic downturn in domestic, regional and global economies. Economic growth in the country in which we operate is affected by various factors including domestic consumption and savings, balance of trade movements, namely export demand and movements in key imports of materials, global economic uncertainty and liquidity crisis, volatility in exchange currency rates, and annual rainfall which affects agricultural production. Consequently, any future slowdown in the Indian economy could harm our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Also, a change in the government or a change in the economic and deregulation policies could adversely affect economic conditions prevalent in the areas in which we operate in general and our business in particular and high rates of inflation in India could increase our costs without proportionately increasing our revenues, and as such decrease our operating margin.

44. Political, economic or other factors that are beyond our control may have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

The Indian economy and its securities markets are influenced by economic developments and volatility in securities markets in other countries. Investors' reactions to developments in one country may have adverse effects on the market price of securities of companies located in other countries, including India. Negative economic developments, such as rising fiscal or trade deficits, or a default on national debt, in other emerging market countries may also affect investor confidence and cause increased volatility in Indian securities markets and indirectly affect the Indian economy in general. Any of these factors could depress economic activity and restrict our access to capital, which could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations and reduce the price of our Equity Shares. Any financial disruption could have an adverse effect on our business, future financial performance, shareholders' equity and the price of our Equity Shares.

45. The occurrence of Hostilities, terrorist attacks, civil unrest and other acts of violence could adversely affect the financial markets and our business.

Terrorist attacks and other acts of violence or war may adversely affect the Indian securities markets. In addition, any deterioration in international relations, especially between India and its neighbouring countries, may result in investor concern regarding regional stability which could adversely affect the price of the Equity Shares. In addition, India has witnessed local civil disturbances in recent years and it is possible that future civil unrest as well as other adverse social, economic or political events in India could have an adverse effect on our business. Such incidents could also create a greater perception that investment in Indian companies involves a higher degree of risk and could have an adverse effect on our business and the market price of the Equity Shares.

46. Under Indian law, foreign investors are subject to investment restrictions that limit our ability to attract foreign investors, which may adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Under foreign exchange regulations currently in force in India, transfer of shares between non-residents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain exceptions), if they comply with the valuation and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If a transfer of shares is not in compliance with such requirements and does not fall under any of the exceptions specified by the RBI, then the RBI's or central government's prior approval is required. Additionally, shareholders who seek to convert Rupee proceeds from a sale of shares in India into foreign currency and repatriate that foreign currency from India require a no objection or a tax clearance certificate from the Indian income tax authorities. We cannot assure you that any required approval from the RBI or any other governmental agency can be obtained on any particular terms or at all.

47. The extent and reliability of Indian infrastructure could adversely affect our Company's results of operations and financial condition.

India's physical infrastructure is in developing phase compared to that of many developed nations. Any congestion or disruption in its port, rail and road networks, electricity grid, communication systems or any other public facility could disrupt our Company's normal business activity. Any deterioration of India's physical infrastructure would harm the national economy, disrupt the transportation of goods and supplies, and add costs to doing business in India. These problems could interrupt our Company's business operations, which could have an adverse effect on its results of operations and financial condition.

48. Any downgrading of India's sovereign rating by an independent agency may harm our ability to raise financing.

Any adverse revisions to India's credit ratings for domestic and international debt by international rating agencies may adversely impact our ability to raise additional financing, and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such additional financing may be available. This could have an adverse effect on our business and future financial performance, our ability to obtain financing for capital expenditures and the trading price of our Equity Shares.

49. Rights of shareholders under Indian laws may be more limited than under the laws of other jurisdictions.

Indian legal principles related to corporate procedures, directors' fiduciary duties and liabilities, and shareholders' rights may differ from those that would apply to a company in another jurisdiction. Shareholders' rights including in relation to class actions, under Indian law may not be as extensive as shareholders' rights under the laws of other countries or jurisdictions. Investors may have more difficulty in asserting their rights as shareholder in an Indian company than as shareholder of a corporation in another jurisdiction.

50. Any downgrading of India's debt rating by an international rating agency could have a negative impact on our business and the trading price of the Equity Shares.

India's sovereign debt rating could be downgraded due to various factors, including changes in tax or financial policy or a decrease in India's foreign exchange reserves. India's foreign exchange reserves have grown consistently in the past. (Source: Reserve Bank of India. However, any decline in foreign exchange reserves could adversely affect the valuation of the Indian Rupee and could result in reduced liquidity and higher interest rates that could adversely affect our future financial performance and the market price of the Equity Shares and could result in a downgrade of India's debt ratings. Any adverse revisions to India's credit ratings for domestic and international debt by international rating agencies may adversely affect our ability to raise additional financing, and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such additional financing is available. This could adversely affect our business and future financial performance and our ability to obtain financing to fund our growth, as well as the trading price of the Equity Shares.

51. Investors may be subject to Indian taxes arising out of capital gains on the sale of the Equity Shares.

Under current Indian tax laws, unless specifically exempted, capital gains arising from the sale of Equity Shares in an Indian company are generally taxable in India. Any gain realized on the sale of listed equity shares on a stock exchange held for more than 12 months will not be subject to long term capital gains tax in India if Securities Transaction Tax ("STT") is paid on the sale transaction and additionally, as stipulated by the Finance Act, 2017. STT had been paid at the time of acquisition of such equity shares, except in the case of such acquisitions where STT could not have been paid, as notified by the Central Government. However, as on the date of this Red Herring Prospectus and Prospectus, the Central Government has not issued any such notification. Due to uncertainty in the applicability of this provision, the shareholders may be subject to payment of long-term capital gains tax in India, in addition to payment of STT, on the sale of any Equity Shares held for more than 12 months. STT will be levied on and collected by a domestic stock exchange on which the Equity Shares are sold. Further, any gain realized on the sale of listed equity shares held for a period of 12 months or less will be subject to short term capital gains tax in India. Capital gains arising from the sale of the Equity Shares will be exempt from taxation in India in cases where the exemption from taxation in India is provided under a treaty between India and the country of which the seller is resident. Generally, Indian tax treaties do not limit India's ability to impose tax on capital gains. As a result, residents of other countries may be liable for tax in India as well as in their own jurisdiction on a gain upon the sale of the Equity Shares.

52. We derive majority of our income from our customers within India. Therefore, factors that adversely affect the demand for our manufacturing and services in India may adversely affect our business.

We have in the past derived and believe that we will continue to derive, a significant portion of our income from our customers within India. In addition, all of our employees are based in India. Consequently, factors that adversely affect the Indian economy or the demand for our manufacturing and services within India, may adversely affect our business and profitability.

53. A slowdown in economic growth in India could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We are dependent on domestic, regional and global economic and market conditions. Our performance, growth and market price of our Equity Shares are and will be dependent to a large extent on the health of the economy in which we operate. 54. We may be affected by competition laws and any adverse application or interpretation of the Competition Act could adversely affect our business and activities.

The Competition Act, 2002, as amended (the "Competition Act"), regulates practices having an appreciable adverse effect on competition in the relevant market in India. Under the Competition Act, any formal or informal arrangement, understanding or action in concert, which causes or is likely to cause an appreciable adverse effect on competition is considered void and results in the imposition of substantial monetary penalties.

Further, any agreement among competitors which directly or indirectly involves the determination of purchase or sale prices, limits or controls production, supply, markets, technical development, investment or provision of services, shares the market or source of production or provision of services by way of allocation of geographical area, type of goods or services or number of clients in the relevant market or directly or indirectly results in bid-rigging or collusive bidding is presumed to have an appreciable adverse effect on competition. The Competition Act also prohibits abuse of a dominant position by any enterprise. The Competition Act aims to, among others, prohibit all agreements and transactions which may have an appreciable adverse effect on competition in India. Further, the Competition Commission of India ("CCI") has extra-territorial powers and can investigate any agreements, abusive conduct or combination occurring outside India if such agreement, conduct or combination has an appreciable adverse effect on competition in India. The applicability or interpretation of the Competition Act to any merger, amalgamation or acquisition proposed or undertaken by us, or any enforcement proceedings initiated by CCI for alleged violation of provisions of the Competition Act may adversely affect our business, financial condition or results of operation.

55. We have not prepared, and currently do not intend to prepare, our financial statements in accordance with the International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”).

Our transition to IFRS reporting could have a material adverse effect on our reported results of operations or financial condition. Public companies in India, including us, may be required to prepare annual and interim financial statements under IFRS in accordance with the roadmap for convergence with IFRS announced by the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, Government of India through a press note dated January 22, 2010 (the “IFRS Convergence Note”). The Ministry of Corporate Affairs by a press release dated February 25, 2011 has notified that 35 Indian Accounting Standards are to be converged with IFRS. The date of implementation of such converged Indian accounting standards has not yet been determined. Our financial condition, results of operations, cash flows or changes in shareholders’ equity may appear materially different under IFRS than under Indian GAAP or our adoption of converged Indian Accounting Standards may adversely affect our reported results of operations or financial condition. This may have a material adverse effect on the amount of income recognized during that Fiscal/period and in the corresponding (restated) Fiscal/period in the comparative Fiscal/period.

56. Financial instability in other countries may cause increased volatility in Indian Financial Markets.

The Indian market and the Indian economy are influenced by economic and market conditions in other countries, including conditions in the United States, Europe and certain emerging economies in Asia. Financial turmoil in Asia, United States, United Kingdom, Russia and elsewhere in the world in recent years has adversely affected the Indian economy. Any worldwide financial instability may cause increased volatility in the Indian financial markets and, directly or indirectly, adversely affect the Indian economy and financial sector and us. Although economic conditions vary across markets, loss of investor confidence in one emerging economy may cause increased volatility across other economies, including India. Financial instability in other parts of the world could have a global influence and thereby negatively affect the Indian economy. Financial disruptions could materially and adversely affect our business prospects, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. Further, economic developments globally can have a significant impact on our principal markets. Concerns related to trade war between large economies may lead to increased risk aversion and volatility in global capital markets and consequently have an impact on the Indian economy. In response to such developments, legislators and financial regulators in the United States and other jurisdictions, including India, implemented a number of policy measures designed to add stability to the financial markets. However, the overall long-term effect of these and other legislative and regulatory efforts on the global financial markets is uncertain, and they may not have the intended stabilizing effects. Any significant financial disruption could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operation. These developments, or the perception that any of them could occur, have had and may continue to have a material adverse effect on global economic conditions and the stability of global financial markets, and may significantly reduce global market liquidity, restrict the ability of key market participants to operate in certain financial markets or restrict our access to capital. This could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations and reduce the price of the Equity Shares.

57. Wage pressures and increases in operating costs in India may prevent us from sustaining our competitive advantage and may reduce our profit margins.

Wage and operating expenses increase in India may prevent us from sustaining this competitive advantage and may negatively affect our profit margins. Wages in India are increasing at a faster rate than in the developed economies, which could result in increased employee benefit expenses. We may need to continue to increase the levels of our employee compensation to remain competitive and manage attrition. Further, The Code on Wages, 2019 received the assent of the President of India on August 8, 2019 and proposes to subsume four existing laws namely, the Payment of Wages Act, 1936, the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, the Payment of Bonus Act, 1965 and the Equal Remuneration Act, 1976. The provisions of this code will be brought into force on a date to be notified by the Central Government. This may impact our wage structure and may lead to increased wage payments to our employees. Additionally, the cost of operating expenses is also increasing as India continues to grow. Compensation increases manifest a hike in operational costs which may result in a material adverse effect on our business and financial condition and result of operations.

- 59. *After this Issue, the price of the Equity Shares may be highly volatile, or an active trading market for the Equity Shares may not develop.

The price of the Equity Shares on the stock exchange may fluctuate as a result of the factors, including:

- Volatility in the India and global capital market;

- Performance of Company's competitors;
- Adverse media reports on Company;

- 60. *The requirements of being a publicly listed company may strain our resources.

We are not a publicly listed company and have not, historically, been subjected to the increased scrutiny of our affairs by the shareholders, regulators and the public at large that is associated with being a listed company. As a listed company, we will incur significant legal, accounting, corporate governance and other expenses that we did not incur as an unlisted company. We will be subject to the Listing Regulations which will require us to file audited annual and unaudited quarterly reports with respect to our business and financial condition. If we experience any delays, we may fail to satisfy our reporting obligations and/or we may not be able to readily determine and accordingly report any changes in our results of operations as promptly as other listed companies. Further, as a publicly listed company, we will need to maintain and improve the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures and internal control over financial reporting, including keeping adequate records of daily transactions. In order to maintain and improve the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures and internal control over financial reporting, significant resources and management attention will be required. As a result, our management's attention may be diverted from our business concerns, which may adversely affect our business prospects, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows. In addition, we may need to hire additional legal and accounting staff with appropriate experience and technical accounting knowledge, but we cannot assure you that we will be able to do so in a timely and efficient manner.

61. Holders of Equity Shares may be restricted in their ability to exercise pre-emptive rights under Indian law and thereby suffer future dilution of their ownership position.

Under the Companies Act, a company incorporated in India must offer its equity shareholders pre-emptive rights to subscribe and pay for a proportionate number of equity shares to maintain their existing ownership percentages prior to issuance of any new equity shares, unless the pre-emptive rights have been waived by the adoption of a special resolution by holders of three-fourths of the equity shares voting on such resolution. However, if the law of the jurisdiction that you are in does not permit the exercise of such pre-emptive rights without our filing an offering document or registration statement with the applicable authority in such jurisdiction, you will be unable to exercise such preemptive rights, unless we make such a filing. If we elect not to file a registration statement, the new securities may be offered to a custodian, who may sell the securities for your benefit. The value such custodian receives on the sale of any such securities and the related transaction costs cannot be predicted. To the extent that you are unable to exercise pre-emptive rights granted in respect of our Equity Shares, your proportional interests in our Company may be reduced.

62. Investors will not be able to sell immediately on an Indian stock exchange any of the Equity Shares they purchase in the Offer.

The Equity Shares will be listed on the Stock Exchanges. Pursuant to applicable Indian laws, certain actions must be completed before the Equity Shares can be listed and trading in the Equity Shares may commence. Investors' book entry, or 'demat' accounts with depository participants in India, are expected to be credited with the Equity Shares within one working day of the date on which the Basis of Allotment is approved by the Stock Exchanges. The Allotment of Equity Shares in this Offer and the credit of such Equity Shares to the applicant's demat account with 55 depository participants could take approximately two Working Days from the Bid Closing Date and trading in the Equity Shares upon receipt of final listing and trading approvals from the Stock Exchanges is expected to commence within three Working Days of the Bid Closing Date. There could be a failure or delay in listing of the Equity Shares on the Stock Exchanges. Any failure or delay in obtaining the approval or otherwise any delay in commencing trading in the Equity Shares would restrict investors' ability to dispose of their Equity Shares. Sundry Creditor Holding Period (Days)	92	85	74	23	23

As certified by Agrawal Uma Shankar & Co, Chartered Accountants pursuant to their certificate dated June 14, 2025
(365 days in a year has been considered)

The justifications for the holding period mentioned in the table above are provided below:

Asset-Current Assets
Trade Receivables	The historical holding days of trade receivables had been ranging anywhere between 85 days to 104 days. Our company had experienced credit period of 88 days, 85 days and 104 days in the FY 2022-23, 2023-24 and 2024-25 which is as per the acceptable business practice in the similar trade. The debtor's period is projected to improve during the FY 2025-26 making it to 61 days which is expected to remain same during the FY 2026-27. Approximately 95% of our revenue is derived from government organizations, where the payment receipt cycle is beyond our control. A notable aspect of our operations is that Indian Railways, upon receiving each invoice, retains 10% to 30% of the invoice amount as security, which is released only upon project completion. As a result, our trade receivables naturally rise in tandem with revenue growth, particularly for longer-term projects. It is important to emphasize that this increase in trade receivables does not indicate any credit risk. Payments from government organizations, including Indian Railways, are considered highly secure, and the receivables are a reflection of the project cycle rather than any delay or risk in collections. This operational dynamic is consistent with the nature of our business and is aligned with industry practices when working with large government entities. In coming years, we are expected to receive many relatively smaller projects which has shorter project cycles or faster project completions as stipulated by the Indian railways which is anticipated to result in reducing the debtor days. There had been some major ongoing projects, which were going on for a long time and completed in FY2025, for which we will be getting back our deposits for all those respective projects taking the receivable days down in coming years. In FY2026 the issue proceeds are going to provide financial stability, reducing the credit period. We will be getting back our long-term deposits for the existing projects in FY2026 reducing the debtor days further. Considering these factors while projecting the fiscal 2026 and 2027 the debtors holding days are anticipated to come down to 61 days and remain stable at this level.
Inventories	Raw Materials: Historically we have maintained a Raw Material holding period in the range of 3 days to 8 days. If we look into FY 2022-23, 2023-24 and 2025 raw material inventory level has been maintained at 5 days, 8 days and 3 days respectively. As a contractual service company, we do not accumulate or hold on to inventory however we procure inventories as and when we need. For FY2024-25 raw material level came down to 3 days which is as per our strategy to maintain a 3 days raw material to meet the demand as and when raised, FY 2025-26 and FY 2026-27 our requirements of inventory projected to remain consistent to 3 days in FY2026 and 4 days in FY2027.

	WIP: Historically the WIP holding period has been maintained somewhere at 6 to 55 days. In the FY2022-23, 2023-24 and 2024-25, our Company maintained a WIP inventory levels for 8 day, 6 days and 55 days respectively. All the products assembled or acquired by our Company are based on ongoing tenders or orders received by the customers. The WIP goods are the machinery and cables procured by our company and waiting in line or process to get assembled to finish those respective segments of the projects. For the period ended on March 31, 2025, holding period has significantly increased to 55 days. The increase is due to multiple projects simultaneously accumulated the goods for the working of the projects and longtime projects completed but completion certificate under process from Indian Railways also bigger size projects tends to affect the WIP holding period as it gets done in multiple phases. However, in FY2026 and FY2027 we anticipate completion of most the longtime projects and maintain the WIP holding period at 37 days only for recent ongoing projects and new projects.
	Finished Goods: We are engaged in fulfilling turnkey projects related to infrastructure and distribution management system. As a composite service company, we do not have any finished goods. Hence there is no Finished Goods period.
Liabilities-Current Liabilities
Trade Payables	The past trend of trade payable holding days has ranged between 74 days to 92 days in recent years. Our Company's trade payables predominantly comprise payables towards purchases of raw materials, consumables and stores along with any ready to use goods. The trade payable days were approximately 92 days, 85 days and 74 days for FY2022-23, 2023-24 and 2024-25 respectively. The days payable outstanding decreased to 74 days in FY2025 and is estimated to decrease to 23 days in FY 2025-26 and 24 days in FY2026-27. This reduction is attributed to early recovery of payments and the expected efficient use of fresh issue proceeds for working capital requirements, enabling timely payment to creditors and strengthening vendor relationships. This approach will allow our Company to negotiate better terms from our suppliers.

As certified by Agrawal Uma Shankar & Co, Chartered Accountants pursuant to their certificate dated June 14, 2025*

Justification for increased working capital:

Our company is a technology driven engineering organization with expertise in optical fiber providing at end-to-end customized networking solutions in the telecom forefront. The aim is to build a seamless networking infrastructure all over the world. The entire operation requires a huge dependency on procuring of different types of materials which will be utilized in completion of the projects.

Justification for increase in working capital requirement in FY 2024 compared to FY 2023.

The working capital requirements for FY2024 increased from Rs. 570.10 in FY2023 to Rs. 812.83 in FY2024 in proportion to total income it was 17.22% in FY2023 and 21.86% in FY2024. The increase is mainly due to increase in revenue from Rs. 3,310.07 in FY2023 to Rs. 3,718.77 in FY2024 and trade receivables ₹796.17 lakhs in FY 2023 to ₹870.95 lakhs in FY 2024.

Trade Receivables

Trade receivables increased from ₹796.17 lakhs in FY 2023 to ₹870.95 lakhs in FY 2024, reflecting higher sales volumes aligned with revenue growth. Our company predominantly delivers projects to Indian Railways and other government undertakings, which constitute approximately 95% of our revenue. The payment receipt cycle for these organizations is beyond our control, and a significant portion of invoice amounts (10% to 30%) is retained by Indian Railways as security, released only upon project completion. Consequently, the increase in trade receivables is a direct result of revenue growth, especially for longer-term projects. It is essential to highlight that this increase does not indicate any credit risk, as payments from government organizations are considered highly secure.

Increase in advance to suppliers:

The advance payments to suppliers rose from Rs. 137.09 lakhs in FY2023 to Rs. 294.02 lakhs in FY2024, contributing to the increase in the working capital. Our company provided advance payments to suppliers to protect against price increases for essential standard-quality equipment. By paying upfront, our company mitigates the risk of future cost fluctuations. Additionally, our company has increased the advance payments to suppliers for deliveries to multiple locations, in line with the growing inventory requirements.

Other Current Liabilities

Other current liabilities increased from ₹ 51.95 lakhs in FY 2023 to ₹ 81.20 lakhs in FY 2024. This increase reflects the increase in advances from clients for ongoing projects.

Short-Term Provisions

Short-term provisions increased from ₹43.06 lakhs in FY 2023 to ₹98.84 lakhs in FY 2024. This rise was mainly driven by an additional ₹55 lakhs allocated for income tax provisions, along with a marginal increase in gratuity provisions.

The increase in working capital requirements for FY 2024 reflects the robust growth trajectory, adherence to project timelines, and the prudent management of financial obligations. These adjustments were critical to supporting higher order volumes, maintaining seamless project execution, and strengthening business operations.

Justification for increase working capital requirement in FY 2025 compared to FY 2024.

The working capital requirement for FY 2025 increased by 84.72% from ₹812.83lakhs in FY 2024 to ₹1502.17lakhs in FY 2025. This increase, as working capital as a percentage of revenue rose from 21.86% in FY 2024 to 35.96% in FY 2025. The increase is mainly due to increase in revenue from Rs. 3,718.77lakhs in FY24 to Rs.4,175.80 lakhs in FY25, growth in inventory from Rs. 83.69 lakhs in FY24 to Rs. 545.92 lakhs in FY25 and increase in trade receivable from Rs. 870.95 lakhs in FY24 to Rs.1,190.58 lakhs in FY25. The detailed justification is as follows:

Increase in Revenue Growth: The revenue increased by 12.28% from Rs. 3,718.77 lakhs in FY2024 to Rs. 4,175.80 lakhs in FY2025 which requires more working capital as our company is engaged in delivering of contractual work of network distribution system, serving only B2B clients across India. It broadly caters only to Railway and Telecom sectors.

Increased Inventory: Inventory has increased by 552.31%, rising from ₹83.69 lakhs in FY2024 to ₹545.92 lakhs in FY2025. The increase in proportion to total income, jumped from 2.25% in FY2024 to 13.07% in FY2025.

In terms of inventory holding period, there is a significant increase of 44 days, from 14 days in FY2024 to 58 days in FY2025. This rise aligns with expanding business operations, particularly its longtime projects accumulating working materials, installed equipment and construction works. Additionally, projects completed but formalities for completion certificates are still under process forms a vital part of WIP which ultimately contributes to increase in inventory days. Also, growing engagement with Indian Railways, necessitating higher inventory levels to ensure uninterrupted supply and operational efficiency. The rise in inventory is primarily driven by:

- a) Support Revenue Growth: Inventory build-up to support the revenue growth in FY2025. As the revenue grew by 12.28% backed by increase in demand for its products in FY2025, necessitating a greater quantity of stock of work-in-progress and raw material to meet customer needs promptly.
- b) Increased WIP : WIP increased from Rs. 52.25 lakhs in FY2024 to Rs. 527.41 lakhs in FY 2025 in proportion to revenue it represented 1.41% in FY24 and 12.63% in FY25. This is due to accumulation of completed projects due for completion certificate from Indian railways and other government authorities. These WIP includes equipment installed at multiple sites, cost of civil works and labor cost for installation works. Since these are high value components of inventory, because until the projects receive a completion certificate each and every cost remains under WIP, it impacts inventory level significantly.
- c) Cater requirements of the tender: The revenue generated from the government and railway sector has been consistently increasing over the last 3 years and our company generates 95% of its revenue from the Indian Railways for which it needs to bid for tenders in various part of the country. The majority of the tenders require to use common materials like iron & steel bars, Galvanized Iron Pipes, High Density Polyethylene pipe and exchanges.
 - I. Our company strategically places bulk orders to cater to its growing number of projects while leveraging economies of scale to secure favourable discounts from suppliers. As a result, the inventory levels are expected to increase, ensuring operational efficiency, cost optimization, and uninterrupted project execution.
 - II. Secondly once we purchase raw materials for the projects it needs to go through with the quality check and approval process for the majority of raw materials which also takes 15-20 days often more. More number of projects might lead to higher inventory holding days

Trade Receivables: The trade receivables increased by 36.70%, from ₹870.95 lakhs in FY2024 to ₹1190.58 lakhs in FY2025. The debtor holding period is increased from 85 days in FY2024 to 104 days in FY2025, reflecting more fund blocked in debtors. In proportion to total income, it represents 23.42% in F24 and 28.51% in FY25. The reasons for increase in trade receivables are primarily due to:

- a. Completion of Previous ongoing projects: We completed handful of previously running projects in the FY 25. The trial and testing have also been completed and handovers have completely made to the railways which resulted into increase in trade receivables.
- b. Lower completion period of tenders: The government tenders specifically mentioned project handover dates. The time bound projects completed towards the year end which contributed to the increase in debtors for FY2025.
- c. Smaller projects with deadlines: This increase was largely due to the nature of projects executed during FY 2025. Many relatively smaller projects undertaken with shorter project cycles or faster completion timelines, as stipulated by Indian Railways. Additionally, major ongoing projects reached completion in FY 2025. Consequently, significant deposits associated with these projects, further increased our debtor days and enhancing our working capital cycle.

Trade Payables: The trade payables are jumped by 25.64%, from ₹351.49 lakhs in FY2024 to ₹ 441.6 lakhs in FY2025. However, the trade payable days decreased from 85 days in FY2024 to 74 days in FY2025, reflecting a shift towards faster payments to suppliers. As a percentage of revenue, trade payables are estimated to decrease from 9.45% in FY2024 to 10.58% in FY2025, indicating liquidity management and a strategic approach to supplier payment cycles.

This reduction in trade payable days, indicates a better position of discharging obligations while keeping the business risk at its minimum.

All these above-mentioned factors have led to an increase in the working capital requirement for FY2025 as compared to FY2024.

Justification for increase working capital requirement in FY 2026 compared to FY 2025.

The working capital requirement for FY 2026 has increased primarily due to the following factors:

The working capital requirement was Rs 1,502.17 lakhs in FY2025 which is seeing an increase of 35.44% to Rs. 2,033.57 lakhs in FY2026. In terms of revenue the working capital requirement represents 35.96% of the revenue in FY2025 and 31.05% of the revenue in FY2026. Here are the reasons for the absolute rise in the working capital:

Increase in Revenue Growth: The revenue is projected to increase by approximately 56.84% from Rs. 4,175.80 lakhs in FY2025 to Rs. 6,549.28 lakhs in FY2026 which requires more working capital as our company is engaged in providing contractual work. The injection of IPO proceeds will help to increase its pace for completion of government tenders is the major reason for the revenue boost.

Bidding for more Tender: With more available funds of IPO proceeds we will start bidding in more tenders through IREPS portal. Our company has built an in-house team of personnel which mainly work's on analysing tenders and quote bid on upcoming tenders. Post IPO funding our company will expedite its tender participation in more Railway works.

Higher Inventory: Inventory is seeing an increase of 8.87% from Rs. 545.92 lakhs in FY2025 to Rs 594.35 lakhs in FY2026. However, in terms of revenue the requirement for inventory is measured at 13.07% in FY2025 to 9.08% in FY2026. The inventory holding period in FY2026 decline to 41 days as compared to 58 days in FY2025. The absolute rise in inventory is primarily driven by:

- a) Working at Multiple Project site: As our company participated for more projects in the IREPS portal Our company plans to work at different project site simultaneously, to meet the completion timeline. This will require to maintain adequate inventory levels, ensuring there is adequate supply of input material at the work site.
- b) Placing bulk orders for common inventory: Our company plans to place large volume orders for inventories which are commonly used in every project site, to avail the benefit of favourable pricing of inventory.
- c) Optimized Supply Chain management: We will be bidding for more projects in the IREPS portal and would be working at different locations at a time on different projects hence placing bulk order will optimize the supply chain management for the inventory and savings in transport expenses.

Other current assets: The estimated other current assets to grow from Rs. 91.97 lakhs in FY2025 to Rs. 385.23 lakhs in FY2026. Other current assets include TDS, Advance tax and GST inputs. As the revenue is projected to increase from Rs. 4,175.80 lakhs in FY2025 to Rs. 6,549.28 lakhs in FY2026, the increase in other current assets in FY2026 expected.

Trade Payables: The trade payables have been projected to go down by 57.07%, from ₹ 441.6 Lakhs in FY 2025 to ₹ 189.68 Lakhs in FY 2026. The trade payable days has reduced from 74 days in FY 2025 to 23 days in FY 2026, representing 10.58% of revenue in FY 2025 and 2.90% in FY 2026.

The reduction of trade payables in absolute terms as well as in holding period is a result of procurement of input supplies at better terms, which has also helped in the profitability.

All these above-mentioned factors have led to an increase in the working capital requirement for FY2026 as compared to FY2025 from Rs. 1,502.17 lakhs in FY2025 to Rs. 2,033.57 lakhs in FY2026. However, with the sufficient strategy for managing working capital, in proportion to total income it decreased from 35.96% in FY2025 to 31.05% in FY2026.

Justification for increase working capital requirement in FY 2027 compared to FY 2026.

The working capital requirement for FY 2027 has increased primarily due to the following factors:

The working capital requirement was Rs. 2,033.57 lakhs in FY2026 which is seeing an increase of 23.62% to Rs. 2,513.83 lakhs in FY2027. In terms of revenue the working capital requirement represents 31.05% of the revenue in FY2026 and 30.70% of the revenue in FY2027. Here are the reasons for the absolute rise in the working capital:

The growth in working capital is closely linked to the rising revenues and operational expansion, with a strong focus on effective management of inventory and receivables in relation to sales. The reasons for absolute increase in working capital if FY 2027 are as below:

Increased Inventory: Inventory for the financial year 2027 is projected to increase from Rs. 594.35 lakhs in FY 2026 to Rs. 750.69 lakhs in FY2027. This increase in terms of absolute number is mainly due to revenue growth, while analyzing it in proportion to revenue the inventory is consistent with 9.08% in FY2026 and 9.17% in FY2027. This consistency is also reflecting in the holding period which is anticipated to 41 days in FY2027 a day more than FY2026. Factors considered for increase in absolute inventory:

- a) Long time project: The inventory mainly is a result of accumulated value of phase wise work of different projects at multiple sites. It is anticipated that projects with few uncompleted phases will contribute to the increase in WIP in FY2027. These are the projects which starts mid of the financial year but the completion is falling within Q1 of next financial years.
- b) High value bids: Infusion of IPO proceeds will make us enable to participate in the high value bids from Indian railways which will boost the revenue and to meet the deadline and complete the work without interruption Inventory requirement will increase.
- c) Equipment as Inventory: Given that we will be handling multiple projects involving the installation of similar equipment across various locations, we intend to keep a stock of the required equipment. Our strategy to lock in current prices and mitigate potential supply chain disruptions. This strategy will help streamline our operations, reduce lead times, and ensure availability of the critical equipment. As a result, our overall inventory levels will projected to increase.

Trade Receivable: Our trade receivable is projected to increase from Rs. 1,091.55 lakhs in FY 2026 to Rs. 1,364.79 lakhs in FY2027. The increase is mainly due to increase in revenue. However, this increase is limited to absolute number, in proportion to revenue it remains same as previous year 16.67%. The same is also reflecting in the holding days of 61 days in FY2027 consistent with the previous year FY2026.

Trade Payable : Our trade payable is projected to increase from Rs. 189.68 lakhs in FY2026 to Rs. 241.77 lakhs in FY2027. In proportion to revenue it remains consistent with the previous year, it represents 2.90 % in FY2026 and for FY 2027 it is 2.95%. The credit days remains 23 days for FY2027 as compared to FY2026. The increase in absolute number is primarily due to increase in credit purchases to meet the demand of growing revenue.

Details of Usage

Splicing Machine - Quantity 10

Usage -

The process of joining 2 fibers is called jointing. A fiber optic fusion splicer is a device that uses an electric arc to melt two optical fibers together at their end faces, to form a single long fiber. The resulting joint, or fusion splice, permanently joins the two glass fibers end to end, so that optical light signals can pass from one fiber into the other with very little loss.

Splicing Machine Requirement - 4 for Railways (North, South, East & West) - 6 for Telecom sector

OTDR - All 5 for Indian Railways

Cable Route Tracer - All 5 for Railways.

Cable Fault Locator - All 10 for Railways

Please note - Every project needs each of one but we will circulate through the country. On an average we have 25 - 30 projects, so this should work in functionality basis.

Optical Time Domain Reflectometer (OTDR) - Quantity 5

Usage -

An Optical Time Domain Reflectometer (OTDR) is an instrument used to measure and create a visual representation of a fiber optic cable route and the health of the fiber. The measurement data can provide information on the condition and performance of fibers, as well as any passive optical components along the cable path like connectors, splices, splitters and multiplexers. Once this information has been captured, analyzed, and stored, it can be recalled as needed to evaluate the same cable over time. The OTDR is also the only fiber testing tool capable of troubleshooting fiber optic cable failures by locating the distance to the fault and identifying the type and cause of the fault, including breaks, bends, bad connectors, and any excessive insertion loss "events".

Cable Route Tracer - Quantity 05

A cable route tracer is used for detecting the presence and proximity of buried cables. To identify the route through which a particular fiber is stretched along through the process of laying. A route tracer detects the cable route, through which a cable route plan is made, existing cables are fixed or more fibers are laid alongside to make the functionality easier.

Cable Fault Locator - Quantity 10

Usage -

Cable faults are damage to cables which affect a resistance in the cable. If allowed to persist, this can lead to a voltage breakdown. There are different types of cable faults, which must first be classified before they can be located. The fault of the cable mainly occurs due to many reasons. They are: inconsistent, any defect, weakness of the cable, insulation failure, and breaking of the conductor. To overcome this problem, an underground cable fault distance locator, used to find the location of the fault for underground cable is used.

A fault Locator helps locate the fault of any OFC cable, the distance at which the fault exists which can later be fixed using a fusion splicer.

The Machine A-800 which is bigger in size, is 32 tonnes and has the capacity to dig and shoot about 1km worth of cable in one go. This machine, helps in reducing the manual labor work, is a blessing in yard areas of railways which has lesser hurdles and more easy shots to lay OFC cables.

This machine will be used in our projects in the east which has softer soil and more yard areas to cover with the machine for laying.

The Machine A-900 which has the same features as the A-800 but has an additional rock cutting facility which provides ease of working in hard and rocky soil. This is ideal for soil in the south and west, where the soil is tougher to course through, hence the A-900 with a rock cutter is appropriate to lay cables across rocky areas.

All of the above machines have a great sensor which allows minimum cutting of laid cables thereby saving us of unnecessary fines and penalties of cutting various cables.

It is also essential to understand, in most projects we rent out these machines which is an additional cost. With projects at each zone of the country, we can deploy our own zonal machine, which can increase output for all projects, reduce costs and dependance on third party machine rental agencies and have our own bandwidth to quote for bigger projects because of our own equipment which has maximum output capacity.

The Machine A-200 which is smaller in size and ideal for small lanes and narrow spaces, the machine is scheduled to be used for all HDD works in the cities for telecom. We currently use rented machines in the city for our telecom projects.

The specialty of this machine is the size and scale of usage. The machine can shoot up to 150-200 meters of cable and is ideal for work in the city where every 10 meters there is a new cable of different utilization.

The A-200 is an ideal machine for our retail work, which helps the machine to navigate around the city very easily, as it isn't too bulky and reduces the workload of manual labor. It provides reduction in trenching through cities, thereby reducing congestion and traffic in the road, helps directly dig one spot and shoot the cable underground without making a huge pile of sand pits on the main roads of cities.

Thereby minimum mess, maximum output and quick work.

JCB Usage:

The use of 3 JCB machines is trenching. The major crux of our outdoor work is trenching, which requires either manual labour or a JCB machine to trench. A JCB machine is the quickest method for trenching, while manual labor is a long tedious process, requires absolute dependence on manpower and has very low output.

To explain the same, let me give numbers and examples,

Manual Labor Output Math:

Per Day each labour can produce maximum the following amount of trenching work -

Soft soil - 5 meters

Hard Soil - 3 meters

While a JCB machine, on an average can produce 500 meters of trenching in a day which is fuss free of labor dependence, has high output capacity thereby reducing overall cost. Even if a machine runs for 20 days, give 500-meter output per day, it will still finish 10km of work as opposed to manual labor which provides 50 meters.

Manual labor on the other hand, provides 100 meters of work a day if 20 labor is deployed, each has a different scale of output, all while assuming each does 5 meter of work. The chances of labor showing up in India in seasons of festivity is slim, weather plays a major role as extreme heat and rains can make output negligible if not negative.

We currently have 4 regions of work; each region has a requirement of the following:

Eastern region: 400km worth of work (rough)

Western region: 300km worth of work (rough)

Southern: 100 km worth of work (rough)

Truck Utilization

We have given quotations of 3 big trucks, all of which are containers for the above-mentioned machines. The machines require a container which can help it travel from one place to another. The trucks are completely covered and will later be furnished with a ramp, which will support the machine to slide in and out of the truck conveniently. This truck serves the purpose as a container for the machines and also helps keep the ancillary equipment which are required for steady functioning of the machine.

There is also a quotation for 3 small trucks which are basically a carrier for water tankers. Any time an HDD machine is in working order, it requires water for its inner working as well as out working. Water is thrown over the soil to soften it, and within the machine rod for easier sifting. So, to reduce dependence on external agencies to provide us water tankers and a small truck with it, we plan on investing in one on our own, as that gives us freedom to work at all hours and at our own pace without dependence on another agency.

STATEMENT OF SPECIAL TAX BENEFITS AVAILABLE TO THE COMPANY AND TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE COMPANY UNDER THE DIRECT TAX LAWS

Outlined below are the special tax benefits available to the Company and to its shareholders under the Income-tax Act, 1961 ('the Act') as amended by the Finance Act (No.2) 2024, i.e., applicable for the Financial Year 2024-25 relevant to the Assessment Year 2025-26, as amended and presently in force in India (together, the "Direct Tax Laws").

A. SPECIAL DIRECT TAX BENEFITS AVAILABLE TO THE COMPANY

1. Lower Corporate Tax rate under section 115BAA of the Income Tax Act, 1961

A new section 115BAA has been inserted in the Act by the Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 2019 ("the Amendment Act, 2019") w.e.f. April 1, 2020 (A.Y. 2020-21). Section 115BAA grants an option to a domestic company to be governed by the section from a particular assessment year. If a company opts for section 115BAA of the Act, it can pay corporate tax at a reduced rate of 25.168% (22% plus surcharge of 10% and education cess of 4%). Section 115BAA of the Act further provides that domestic companies availing the option will not be required to pay Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) on their 'book profits' under section 115JB of the Act.

However, such a company will no longer be eligible to avail specified exemptions/ incentives under the Act and will also need to comply with the other conditions specified in section 115BAA. Also, if a company opts for section 115BAA, the tax credit (under section 115JAA), if any, which it is entitled to on account of MAT paid in earlier years, will no longer be available. Further, it shall not be allowed to claim set-off of any brought forward loss arising to it on account of additional depreciation and other specified incentives.

The Company has evaluated and opted for the lower corporate tax rate of 25.168% (prescribed under section 115BAA of the Act) with effect from Assessment Year 2021-22.

2. Deduction in respect of inter-corporate dividends - Section 80M of the Income Tax Act, 1961

Up to 31st March 2020, any dividend paid to a shareholder by a company was liable to Dividend Distribution Tax ("DDT"), and the recipient shareholder was exempt from tax under section 10(34) of the Act. Pursuant to the amendment made by the Finance Act, 2020, DDT stands abolished, and dividend received by a shareholder on or after 1st April 2020 is liable to tax in the hands of the shareholder. The Company is required to deduct Tax Deducted at Source ("TDS") at applicable rate specified under the Act read with applicable Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement (if any). With respect to a resident corporate shareholder, a new section 80M has been inserted in the Act to remove the cascading effect of taxes on inter-corporate dividends during FY 2020-21 and thereafter. The section provides that where the gross total income of a domestic company in any previous year includes any income by way of dividends from any other domestic company or a foreign company or a business trust, there shall, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed in computing the total income of such domestic company, a deduction of an amount equal to so much of the amount of income by way of dividends received from such other domestic company or foreign company or business trust as does not exceed the amount of dividend distributed by it on or before the due date. The "due date" means the date one month prior to the date for furnishing the return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139 of the Act.

3. Buyback of shares - Section 115QA of the Income Tax Act, 1961

Any amount distributed by the Company pursuant to buyback of shares undertaken prior to October 1, 2024, from its shareholders shall be liable to buyback tax at 23.296% in the hands of the Company on distributed income (buyback price less issue price). Further, such transaction shall be exempt in the hands of the shareholders under section 10(34A) of the Act.

Pursuant to amendment in Finance Act (No.2) 2024, the provisions of section 115QA shall not apply for buy back of shares which takes place on or after October 01, 2024. Thus, there would be no tax on buy back for the Company effective from October 01, 2024.

Further, the Company is required to withhold tax at 10% provided the aggregate amount of dividend to the resident shareholders exceeds ₹ 5,000 during the financial year. Further, for non-resident shareholders tax shall be withheld at 20, subject to benefit under Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement.

B. SPECIAL DIRECT TAX BENEFITS AVAILABLE TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF THE COMPANY

1. Dividend income earned by the shareholders would be taxable in their hands at the applicable rates for resident shareholders. Further, as per Section 115A of the Act, a non-resident (not being a company) or of a foreign company, includes any income by way of Dividend, the amount of income-tax calculated on the amount of income by way of dividends shall be at the rate of 20% subject to fulfilment of prescribed conditions under the Act.
2. In case of domestic corporate shareholders, deduction from dividend income would be available under Section 80M of the Act on fulfilling the conditions (as discussed above). Further, in case of shareholders who are individuals, Hindu Undivided Family, Association of Persons, Body of Individuals, whether incorporated or not, surcharge would be restricted to 15% (instead of peak surcharge rate of 37%), irrespective of the amount of dividend.
3. In case of dividend income earned by domestic shareholders, reported under the head “Income from other sources”, shall be computed after making deduction of a sum paid by way of interest on the capital borrowed for the purpose of investment. However, no deduction shall be allowed from the dividend income, other than deduction on account of interest expense, and in any previous year such deduction shall not exceed 20% of the dividend income under section 57 of the Act. Further, no deduction shall be available against dividend income resulting from buy-back of shares.
4. As per Section 112A of the Act, long-term capital gains arising from transfer of an equity share, or a unit of an equity-oriented fund or a unit of a business trust, which takes place before July 23, 2024, shall be taxed at 10% (without indexation) of such capital gains subject to fulfilment of prescribed conditions under the Act and Notification No. 60/2018/F.O.370142/9/2017-TPL dated 1 October 2018. It is worthwhile to note that tax shall be levied where such capital gains exceed ₹ 1,00,000. Pursuant to amendment in Finance Act (No.2) 2024, long term capital gains arising from the transfer of above securities, which takes place on or after July 23, 2024 will be taxable at 12.5% (without indexation). Further, tax shall be levied where such capital gains exceed ₹ 1,25,000.
5. Section 112 of the Act provides for taxation of long-term capital gains. In case of a domestic company/ resident, amount of income-tax on long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset which takes place before July 23, 2024 shall be computed at the rate of 20%.

In case of non-resident (not being a company) or a foreign company, the amount of income-tax on long-term capital gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset (being unlisted securities or shares of a company not being a company in which the public are substantially interested), which takes place before July 23, 2024 shall be calculated at the rate of 10% without giving effect to the first and second proviso to section 48.

Further, where the tax payable is payable in respect of any income arising from the transfer of a long-term capital asset, being listed securities or zero-coupon bond, which takes place before July 23, 2024 then such income will be subject to tax at the rate of 10% of the amount of capital gains before giving effect to the provisions of the second proviso to section 48.

Pursuant to amendment in Finance Act (No.2) 2024, long term capital gains arising from the transfer of above securities, which takes place on or after July 23, 2024 will be taxable at 12.5% (without indexation). Further, in case of non-resident, capital gain shall be computed without giving effect to first and second proviso to section 48, except in case listed securities or zero-coupon bond, where first proviso of section 48 is available.

Further, post enactment of Finance Act (No.2) 2024, capital gains arising from transfer of capital assets held for more than 12 months shall be considered as Long-Term Capital gain, else short term capital gain.

6. As per Section 111A of the Act, short term capital gains arising from transfer of an equity share, or a unit of an equity-oriented fund or a unit of a business trust which takes place before July 23, 2024 shall be taxed at 15% subject to fulfilment of prescribed conditions under the Act.

Pursuant to amendment in Finance Act (No.2) 2024, short term capital gains arising from the transfer of above securities, which takes place on or after July 23, 2024 will be taxable at 20%.

7. Any payment received by the shareholders from the Company pursuant to buyback of shares undertaken prior to October 1, 2024 shall be exempt under section 10(34A) of the Act. Pursuant to amendment in Finance Act (No.2) 2024, any payment received by the shareholders from the Company on or after October 1, 2024 on account of buy back of shares shall be taxable as dividend as per newly introduced section 2(22)(f). Also, no deduction from such dividend income shall be allowed.

8. Further, section 46A deems full value of sale consideration of shares bought back as nil and consequently, cost of acquisition of shares bought back would be allowed as capital loss unless such shares are held as stock-in-trade. In case, such shares are held as stock-in-trade, cost of acquisition of shares bought back shall be allowed as business loss. In addition, such loss shall be allowed to be carried forward and set off, subject to provisions of section 74 and section 72 of the Act, as the case may be.

9. In respect of non-resident shareholders, the tax rates, and the consequent taxation (in relation to capital gains, dividends etc.) shall be further subject to any benefits available under the applicable Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement, if any, between India and the country in which the non-resident has fiscal domicile.

GLOBAL ECONOMIC OVERVIEW

Global growth is projected at 3.3 percent both in 2025 and 2026, below the historical (2000–19) average of 3.7 percent. The forecast for 2025 is broadly unchanged from that in the October 2024 World Economic Outlook (WEO), primarily on account of an upward revision in the United States offsetting downward revisions in other major economies. Global headline inflation is expected to decline to 4.2 percent in 2025 and to 3.5 percent in 2026, converging back to target earlier in advanced economies than in emerging market and developing economies. Medium-term risks to the baseline are tilted to the downside, while the near-term outlook is characterized by divergent risks. Upside risks could lift already-robust growth in the United States in the short run, whereas risks in other countries are on the downside amid elevated policy uncertainty. Policy-generated disruptions to the ongoing disinflation process could interrupt the pivot to easing monetary policy, with implications for fiscal sustainability and financial stability. Managing these risks requires a keen policy focus on balancing trade-offs between inflation and real activity, rebuilding buffers, and lifting medium-term growth prospects through stepped-up structural reforms as well as stronger multilateral rules and cooperation.

Global disinflation continues, but there are signs that progress is stalling in some countries and that elevated inflation is persistent in a few cases. The global median of sequential core inflation has been just slightly above 2 percent for the past few months. Nominal wage growth is showing signs of moderation, alongside indications of continuing normalization in labor markets. Although core goods price inflation has fallen back to or below trend, services price inflation is still running above pre-COVID-19 averages in many economies, most notably the United States and the euro area. Pockets of elevated inflation, reflecting a range of idiosyncratic factors, also persist in some emerging market and developing economies in Europe and Latin America.

Global financial conditions remain largely accommodative, again with some differentiation across jurisdictions (see Box 1). Equities in advanced economies have rallied on expectations of more business-friendly policies in the United States. In emerging market and developing economies, equity valuations have been more subdued, and a broad-based strengthening of the US dollar, driven primarily by expectations of new tariffs and higher interest rates in the United States, has kept financial conditions tighter.

Economic policy uncertainty has increased sharply, especially on the trade and fiscal fronts, with some differentiation across countries (Figure 1). Expectations of policy shifts under newly elected governments in 2024 have shaped financial market pricing in recent months. Bouts of political instability in some Asian and European countries have rattled markets and injected additional uncertainty regarding stalled progress on fiscal and structural policies. Geopolitical tensions, including those in the Middle East, and global trade frictions remain elevated.

GLOBAL OUTLOOK

IMF staff projections assume current policies in place at the time of publication. They incorporate recent market developments and the impact of heightened trade policy uncertainty, which is assumed to be temporary, with the effects unwinding after about a year, but refrain from making any assumptions about potential policy changes that are currently under public debate. Energy commodity prices are expected to decline by 2.6 percent in 2025, more than assumed in October. This reflects a decline in oil prices driven by weak Chinese demand and strong supply from countries outside of OPEC+ (Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries plus selected nonmember countries, including Russia), partly offset by increases in gas prices as a result of colder-than-expected weather and supply disruptions, including the ongoing conflict in the Middle East and outages in gas fields. Nonfuel commodity prices are expected to increase by 2.5 percent in 2025, on account of upward revisions to food and beverage prices relative to the October 2024 WEO, driven by bad weather affecting large producers. Monetary policy rates of major central banks are expected to continue to decline, though at different paces, reflecting variations in growth and inflation outlooks. The fiscal policy stance is expected to tighten during 2025–26 in advanced economies including the United States and, to a lesser extent, in emerging market and developing economies.

Global growth is expected to remain stable, albeit lackluster. At 3.3 percent in both 2025 and 2026, the forecasts for growth are below the historical (2000–19) average of 3.7 percent and broadly unchanged from October (Table 1; see also Annex Table 1). The overall picture, however, hides divergent paths across economies and a precarious global growth profile (Figure 2).

Among advanced economies, growth forecast revisions go in different directions. In the United States, underlying demand remains robust, reflecting strong wealth effects, a less restrictive monetary policy stance, and supportive financial conditions. Growth is projected to be at 2.7 percent in 2025. This is 0.5 percentage point higher than the October forecast, in part reflecting carryover from 2024 as well as robust labor markets and accelerating investment, among other signs of strength. Growth is expected to taper to potential in 2026.

In the euro area, growth is expected to pick up but at a more gradual pace than anticipated in October, with geopolitical tensions continuing to weigh on sentiment. Weaker-than-expected momentum at the end of 2024, especially in manufacturing, and heightened political and policy uncertainty explain a downward revision of 0.2 percentage point to 1.0 percent in 2025. In 2026, growth is set to rise to 1.4 percent, helped by stronger domestic demand, as financial conditions loosen, confidence improves, and uncertainty recedes somewhat.

In other advanced economies, two offsetting forces keep growth forecasts relatively stable. On the one hand, recovering real incomes are expected to support the cyclical recovery in consumption. On the other hand, trade headwinds—including the sharp uptick in trade policy uncertainty—are expected to keep investment subdued. In emerging market and developing economies, growth performance in 2025 and 2026 is expected to broadly match that in 2024. With respect to the projection in October, growth in 2025 for China is marginally revised upward by 0.1 percentage point to 4.6 percent. This revision reflects carryover from 2024 and the fiscal package announced in November largely offsetting the negative effect on investment from heightened trade policy uncertainty and property market drag. In 2026, growth is projected mostly to remain stable at 4.5 percent, as the effects of trade policy uncertainty dissipate and the retirement age increase slows down the decline in the labor supply. In India, growth is projected to be solid at 6.5 percent in 2025 and 2026, as projected in October and in line with potential.

In the Middle East and Central Asia, growth is projected to pick up, but less than expected in October. This mainly reflects a 1.3 percentage point downward revision to 2025 growth in Saudi Arabia, mostly driven by the extension of OPEC+ production cuts. In Latin America and the Caribbean, overall growth is projected to accelerate slightly in 2025 to 2.5 percent, despite an expected slowdown in the largest economies of the region. Growth in sub-Saharan Africa is expected to pick up in 2025, while it is forecast to slow down in emerging and developing Europe.

World trade volume estimates are revised downward slightly for 2025 and 2026. The revision owes to the sharp increase in trade policy uncertainty, which is likely to hurt investment disproportionately among trade-intensive firms. That said, in the baseline, the impact of heightened uncertainty is expected to be transitory. Furthermore, the front-loading of some trade flows in view of elevated trade policy uncertainty, and in anticipation of tighter trade restrictions, provides some offset in the near term.

Progress on disinflation is expected to continue. Deviations from the October 2024 WEO forecasts are minimal. The gradual cooling of labor markets is expected to keep demand pressures at bay. Combined with the expected decline in energy prices, headline inflation is projected to continue its descent toward central bank targets. That said, inflation is projected to be close to, but above, the 2 percent target in 2025 in the United States, whereas inflationary dynamics are expected to be more subdued in the euro area. Low inflation is projected to persist in China. Consequently, the gap between anticipated policy rates in the United States and other countries becomes wider.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

Activity in EMDEs generally steadied over 2024, as indicators of domestic demand—led by an ongoing expansion in the services sector—remained broadly supportive, despite some moderation in the second half of the year (figure 1.8.A). Gradually improving domestic demand was aided by generally easing financial conditions and improving credit growth (figure 1.8.B). This helped offset some softening in the expansion of manufacturing activity in the second half of 2024, which partly reflected still-modest external goods demand and ebbing industrial production growth (figure 1.8.C).

Growth continued to diverge across EMDEs in 2024, with slower-than-expected activity in some energy-exporting EMDEs and generally more solid conditions across other economies. In some major energy exporters, softness in global energy demand and ongoing OPEC+ production cuts weighed on net exports, revenues, and investment (figure 1.8.D). In energy-importing EMDEs excluding China, growth remained generally steady throughout 2024, supported by a broad-based pickup in consumption and investment. Consumption was underpinned by declining inflation and easing energy prices, improving real wage growth, and generally favorable consumer confidence. Similarly, despite some softening in late 2024, business confidence and industrial production remained favorable for investment activity.

INDIAN ECONOMIC OVERVIEW

Strong economic growth in the first quarter of FY23 helped India overcome the UK to become the fifth-largest economy after it recovered from the COVID-19 pandemic shock. Nominal GDP for Q2 FY25 is estimated at Rs. 76.60 lakh crore (US$ 886.16 billion) with growth rate of 8.0%, compared to Rs. 70.90 lakh crore (US$ 820.22 billion) for Q2 FY24. The growth in nominal GDP during 2023-24 is estimated at 9.6% as compared to 14.2% in 2022-23. Strong domestic demand for consumption and investment, along with Government's continued emphasis on capital expenditure are seen as among the key driver of the GDP in the second half of FY24. During the period April-December 2024, India's exports stood at Rs. 27.56 lakh crore (US$ 318.96 billion), with Engineering Goods (27.32%), Petroleum Products (14.59%) and Electronic Goods (8.19%) being the top three exported commodity. Rising employment and increasing private consumption, supported by rising consumer sentiment, will support GDP growth in the coming months.

Future capital spending of the government in the economy is expected to be supported by factors such as tax buoyancy, the streamlined tax system with low rates, a thorough assessment and rationalisation of the tariff structure, and the digitization of tax filing.

In the medium run, increased capital spending on infrastructure and asset-building projects is set to increase growth multipliers. The contact-based services sector has demonstrated promise to boost growth by unleashing the pent-up demand. The sector's success is being captured by a number of HFIs (High-Frequency Indicators) that are performing well, indicating the beginnings of a comeback.

India has emerged as the fastest-growing major economy in the world and is expected to be one of the top three economic powers in the world over the next 10-15 years, backed by its robust democracy and strong partnerships.

India's appeal as a destination for investments has grown stronger and more sustainable because of the current period of global unpredictability and volatility, and the record amounts of money raised by India-focused funds in 2022 are evidence of investor faith in the "Invest in India" narrative.

MARKET SIZE

Real GDP for Q2 of FY25 is estimated at Rs. 44.10 lakh crores (US$ 509.36 billion) with growth rate of 5.4%, compared to Rs. 41.86 lakh crore (US$ 484.27 billion) for Q2 of 2023-24. The growth in real GDP during 2023-24 is estimated at 8.2% as compared to 7.0% in 2022-23. There are 113 unicorn startups in India, with a combined valuation of over US$ 350 billion. As many as 14 tech startups are expected to list in 2024 Fintech sector poised to generate the largest number of future unicorns in India. With India presently has the third-largest unicorn base in the world. The government is also focusing on renewable sources by achieving 40% of its energy from non-fossil sources by 2030. India is committed to achieving the country's ambition of Net Zero Emissions by 2070 through a five-pronged strategy, 'Panchamrit'. Moreover, India ranked 3rd in the renewable energy country attractive index.

According to the McKinsey Global Institute, India needs to boost its rate of employment growth and create 90 million non-farm jobs between 2023 to 2030 in order to increase productivity and economic growth. The net employment rate needs to grow by 1.5% per annum from 2023 to 2030 to achieve 8-8.5% GDP growth between same time periods. India's Current Account Deficit (CAD) narrowed to 0.7% of GDP in FY24. The CAD stood at Rs. 96,790 crore (US$ 11.2 billion) for Q2 of FY25 from Rs. 97,655 crore (US$ 11.3 billion) in Q2 of FY24 or 1.3% of GDP. This was largely due to decrease in merchandise trade deficit.

Exports fared remarkably well during the pandemic and aided recovery when all other growth engines were losing steam in terms of their contribution to GDP. Going forward, the contribution of merchandise exports may waver as several of India's trade partners witness an economic slowdown. According to Minister of Commerce and Industry, Consumer Affairs, Food and Public Distribution and Textiles Mr. Piyush Goyal, Indian exports are expected to reach US$ 1 trillion by 2030.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

India is primarily a domestic demand-driven economy, with consumption and investments contributing to 70% of the economic activity. With an improvement in the economic scenario and the Indian economy recovering from the Covid-19 pandemic shock, several investments and developments have been made across various sectors of the economy. According to World Bank, India must continue to prioritise lowering inequality while also putting growth-oriented policies into place to boost the economy. In view of this, there have been some developments that have taken place in the recent past. Some of them are mentioned below.

- According to HSBC Flash India PMI report, business activity surged in April to its highest level in about 14 years as well as sustained robust demand. The composite index reached 62.2, indicating continuous expansion since August 2021, alongside positive job growth and decreased input inflation, affirming India's status as the fastest-growing major economy.
- According to a report by the State Bank of India (SBI), domestic investment announcements in India have experienced a substantial increase, exceeding Rs. 37 lakh crore (US$ 428.04 billion) in FY23 and FY24.
- According to data from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), India's domestic air passenger traffic increased by 6.12% in 2024, reaching a total of 161.3 million passengers. This growth follows a substantial YoY increase of 23.36% in 2023, attributed to the ongoing recovery from the pandemic.

GOVERNMENT INITIATIVES

Over the years, the Indian government has introduced many initiatives to strengthen the nation's economy. The Indian government has been effective in developing policies and programmes that are not only beneficial for citizens to improve their financial stability but also for the overall growth of the economy. Over recent decades, India's rapid economic growth has led to a substantial increase in its demand for exports. Besides this, a number of the government's flagship programmes, including Make in India, Start-up India, Digital India, the Smart City Mission, and the Atal Mission for Rejuvenation and Urban Transformation, is aimed at creating immense opportunities in India. In this regard, some of the initiatives taken by the government to improve the economic condition of the country are mentioned below: In July 2024, the Ministry of Finance held the Union Budget and announced that for 2024-25, the total receipts other than borrowings and the total expenditure are estimated at INR 32.07 lakh crore (USD 383.93 billion) and INR 48.21 lakh crore (USD 577.16 billion), respectively.

- According to a report by Wood Mackenzie in January 2025, India, the United States, and West Asia are expected to collectively add 100 Gigawatts (GW) of solar capacity by 2025, while China is anticipated to continue its leadership in the solar industry.
- In July 2024, the Ministry of Finance held the Union Budget and announced that for 2024-25, the total receipts other than borrowings and the total expenditure are estimated at Rs. 32.07 lakh crore (US$ 383.93 billion) and Rs. 48.21 lakh crore (US$ 577.16 billion), respectively.
- In February 2024, the Finance Ministry announced the total expenditure in Interim 2024-25 estimated at Rs. 47,65,768 crore (US$ 571.64 billion) of which total capital expenditure is Rs. 11,11,111 crore (US$ 133.27 billion).
- On January 22, 2024, Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi announced the 'Pradhan Mantri Suryodaya Yojana'. Under this scheme, 1 crore households will receive rooftop solar installations.
- On September 17, 2023, Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi launched the Central Sector Scheme PM-VISHWAKARMA in New Delhi. The new scheme aims to provide recognition and comprehensive support to traditional artisans & craftsmen who work with their hands and basic tools. This initiative is designed to enhance the quality, scale, and reach of their products, as well as to integrate them with MSME value chains.
- On August 6, 2023, Amrit Bharat Station Scheme was launched to transform and revitalize 1309 railway stations across the nation. This scheme envisages development of stations on a continuous basis with a long-term vision.
- On June 28, 2023, the Ministry of Environment, Forests, and Climate Change introduced the 'Draft Carbon Credit Trading Scheme, 2023'.
- From April 1, 2023, Foreign Trade Policy 2023 was unveiled to create an enabling ecosystem to support the philosophy of 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' and 'Local goes Global'.
- To enhance India's manufacturing capabilities by increasing investment and production in the sector, the government of India has introduced the Production Linked Incentive Scheme (PLI) for Pharmaceuticals.
- Prime Minister's Development Initiative for North-East Region (PM-DevINE) was announced in the Union Budget 2022-23 with a financial outlay of Rs. 1,500 crore (US$ 182.35 million).

- Prime Minister Mr Narendra Modi has inaugurated a new food security scheme for providing free food grains to Antyodaya Ann Yojna (AAY) & Primary Household (PHH) beneficiaries, called Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Ann Yojana (PMGKAY) from January 1, 2023.

ROAD AHEAD

In the second quarter of FY24, the growth momentum of the first quarter was sustained, and High-Frequency Indicators (HFIs) performed well in July and August of 2023. India's comparatively strong position in the external sector reflects the country's positive outlook for economic growth and rising employment rates. India ranked 5th in foreign direct investment inflows among the developed and developing nations listed for the first quarter of 2022.

India's economic story during the first half of FY24 highlighted the unwavering support the government gave to its capital expenditure, which, in FY24, stood 37.4% higher than the same period last year. In the Union Budget of 2024-25, capital expenditure took lead by steeply increasing the capital expenditure outlay by 17.1 % to Rs. 11 lakh crore (US$ 133.51 billion) over Rs. 9.48 lakh crore (US$ 113.91 billion) in 2023-24. Stronger revenue generation because of improved tax compliance, increased profitability of the company, and increasing economic activity also contributed to rising capital spending levels.

India's is experiencing resilient growth despite the global pandemic. India's exports climbed at the second-highest rate with a year-over-year (YoY) growth of 8.39% in merchandise exports and a 29.82% growth in service exports till April 2023.

With a reduction in port congestion, supply networks are being restored. The CPI-C inflation reduction from June 2022 already reflects the impact. In September 2023 (Provisional), CPI-C inflation was 5.02%, down from 7.01% in June 2022. With a proactive set of administrative actions by the government, flexible monetary policy, and a softening of global commodity prices and supply-chain bottlenecks, inflationary pressures in India look to be on the decline overall.

INDIAN ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

India is set to dominate the global economic landscape, maintaining its status as the fastest-growing large economy for the next two fiscal years. The January 2025 edition of the World Bank's Global Economic Prospects (GEP) report projects India's economy to grow at a steady rate of 6.7% in both FY26 and FY27, significantly outpacing global and regional peers. At a time when global growth is expected to remain at 2.7 per cent in 2025-26, this remarkable performance underscores India's resilience and its growing significance in shaping the world's economic trajectory.

The GEP report credits this extraordinary momentum to a thriving services sector and a revitalised manufacturing base, driven by transformative government initiatives. From modernising infrastructure to simplifying taxes, these measures are fuelling domestic growth and positioning India as a cornerstone of global economic stability. With its closest competitor, China, decelerating to 4 per cent growth next year, India's rise is more than just a statistic. It is a powerful story of ambition, innovation, and unmatched potential.

Complementing the World Bank report, the latest update from the International Monetary Fund's (IMF) World Economic Outlook (WEO) also reinforces India's strong economic trajectory. The IMF forecasts India's growth to remain robust at 6.5% for both 2025 and 2026, aligning with earlier projections from October. This consistent growth outlook reflects India's stable economic fundamentals and its ability to maintain momentum despite global uncertainties. The continued strength of India's economic performance, as projected by both the World Bank and IMF, underscores the country's resilience and highlights the sustained strength of its economic fundamentals, making India a crucial player in the global economic landscape.

Key Findings

- India is projected to remain the fastest-growing large economy for FY26 and FY27, reaffirming its dominance in the global economic landscape.
- India's economy is expected to grow at a stable rate of 6.7 per cent annually during FY26 and FY27.

- Growth in India's services sector is expected to remain robust, while manufacturing activity will strengthen, supported by government efforts to improve logistics infrastructure and streamline tax systems.
- Private consumption in India is likely to gain momentum, driven by a stronger labour market, increased access to credit, and lower inflation.
- India's Investment growth is expected to remain steady, supported by rising private investments, improved corporate balance sheets, and favourable financing conditions.
- Global economic growth is projected to hold steady at 2.7 per cent in 2025-26, highlighting India's outperformance.
- Emerging Market and Developing Economies (EMDEs) have undergone significant transformation since 2000, now contributing about 45 per cent of global GDP, compared to 25 per cent at the start of the century.
- India, China, and Brazil, the three largest EMDEs, have collectively driven approximately 60 per cent of annual global growth since the start of the century.

The recent GDP growth figures of 5.4% year over year for the second quarter of fiscal year 2024 to 2025 probably caught markets off guard (it was significantly below the Reserve Bank of India’s projection of 6.8%). Slower growth in the first half of the fiscal (6%) led the RBI to bring down the annual projection to 6.6% (down from an earlier projection of 7%). However, it’s essential not to let the headline numbers overshadow the nuanced story beneath: GDP is just one lens to evaluate economic health, and this quarter reveals resilience in certain pockets that are worth noting.

Rural consumption has remained robust, supported by strong agricultural performance, while the services sector continues to be a key driver of growth. Manufacturing exports, particularly in high-value-added components (such as electronics, semiconductors, and pharmaceuticals), have displayed strength, underscoring India’s growing role in global value chains. We believe the slow growth in the secondary sector is temporary (due to disruptions caused by monsoons).

Deloitte has revised its annual GDP growth projection for India to between 6.5% and 6.8% in this fiscal year, and between 6.7% and 7.3% in the following one. A tempered global growth outlook and a delayed synchronized recovery in the industrial economies amid changing trade and policy regulations—compared to what was previously expected—will likely weigh on India’s exports and outlook for the next fiscal year. India will have to adapt to the evolving global landscape and harness its domestic strengths to drive sustainable growth.

This quarter, we highlight one of the stories of economic decoupling from global uncertainties and resilience, yet again evident in the resilience of India’s capital markets that we have lately seen. Capital markets are critical to directing savings into investment, and their stability is key to ensuring a steady investment environment and making long-term investment decisions with confidence. This stability is the outcome of the rising participation of domestic institutional investors (DIIs)—something that has cushioned the impact of global uncertainties, as we found a statistically significant reduction in the sensitivity of capital markets to foreign capital volatility.

This reinforces confidence in India's demographic dividend and growing middle-class wealth, which are not only important for driving consumption and strengthening the labor market, but also enhancing the stability of the nation's financial markets.

As government prepares for the next budget, it should prioritize targeted measures to drive investments, emphasizing increased DII participation and securely channeling household savings into capital markets with protective safeguards.

The two methods of estimating economic activity are decoded as follows.

On the expenditure side, the slowdown in investments and exports were key factors weighing on the economy. Gross fixed capital formation (GFCF), a key driver of economic growth, slowed down to 5.4%. This was partly due to slower government capex utilization, which was at 37.3% in the first half of this year, lower than last year's 49%.

Geopolitical uncertainties and disruptions in global supply chains, particularly in the Red Sea region, continued to weigh on exports. Petroleum product exports experienced a consistent decline across all three months of the quarter, averaging an approximate 30% contraction. As a result, total export growth slowed to 2.8%. At the same time, imports were higher due to a rise in oil and gold imports.

On the production side, gross value added grew by 5.6% in the second quarter, down from 6.8% in the previous one, primarily due to poor performance in the secondary sector. The slowdown in the industrial sector was somewhat expected as the index of industrial production showed signs of slowing across multiple sectors, particularly in mining and electricity. Mining contracted by 0.1%, while electricity and other utilities grew by just 3.3% (a sharp decline from the previous quarter's 10.4%). The construction sector grew 7.7%—its lowest since the last quarter of fiscal 2021 to 2022. Growth in manufacturing was modest, at 2.2% (down from 7%).

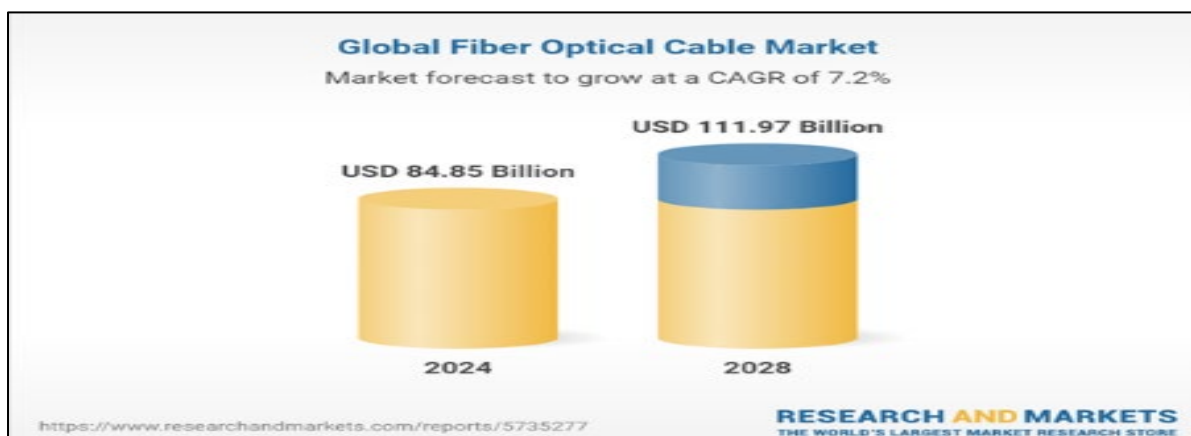

We believe these sectoral declines are temporary due to monsoon-driven disruptions (8% above-normal rainfall) and restrictive spending during elections. What is concerning is we also suspect the possibility of higher dumping from neighboring countries. Imports of goods such as plastics, organic chemicals, iron and steel products, machinery, and electronic components have seen a sharp jump in recent months and pose a significant threat in the months ahead amid restrictive trade regulations in industrialized nations.

GLOBAL TELECOM INDUSTRY

Telecom is the exchange of information by electronic and electrical means over a considerable distance.

The main types of telecoms are wireless telecommunication carriers, wired telecommunication carriers, communications hardware, and satellite and telecommunication resellers. Wireless communication involves the transmission of information without the help of wires, cables or any other electrical conductors. The various products used include telecom hardware and telecom services for household and commercial applications.

Telecom Market Size 2024And Growth Rate

The telecom market size has grown steadily in recent years. It will grow from $2970.7 billion in 2023 to $3106.93 billion in 2024 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.6%. The growth in the historic period can be attributed to growing number of internet users, increasing adoption of 5G networks and rise in adoption of cloud computing among SMEs (small and medium-sized enterprises).

INDIAN OPTICAL FIBER CABLES MARKET- INDUSTRY ANALYSIS AND FORECAST

India Optical Fiber Cables Market is expected to reach US$ 2.50 Bn. by 2026 at a CAGR of 20.11 during the forecast period.

Optical fiber cable (OFC) is used as the medium and technology that refers to transmit information. The information is transmitted through optical cables as rapid light pulses. The optical fiber offers many features such as increased bandwidth, decreased size and weight, electromagnetic interference immunity, data security, electrical isolation, and others.

These are used in communication applications, which contain IT & Telecom, Government, MSO (Triple Play), Defense, Healthcare and in non-communication applications such as sensor, fiber optic lighting, and others. For instance, the Indian government has been financing in OFC network infrastructure to surge internet penetration around the country, which is in line with the government's initiatives such as Digital India and Smart Cities Mission.

An increase in penetration of broadband connections in India, rise in need for fast and developed networking and network services are expected to be the major drivers of the India optical fiber and accessories market growth. The India optical fiber cable market is driven by the widespread implementation of 5G, increase in adoption of fiber to the home (FTTH) connectivity and emergence of internet of things (IoT). However, High installation cost and growth in the wireless communication systems are hampering the market growth at the global level. Technological advancements in the fiber optic cable technology and rising investments in optical fiber cable (OFC) network infrastructures are likely to create lucrative opportunities in India optical fiber cables market.

The report study has analyzed revenue impact of covid-19 pandemic on the sales revenue of market leaders, market followers and disrupters in the report and same is reflected in our analysis.

India Optical Fiber Cables Market Segmentation Analysis:

Based on the end users, the India optical fiber cables market has been segmented into IT & Telecom, Government, MSO (Triple Play), Defense and Healthcare. These factors have amplified the demand for optical fiber cable and connectors in the telecom sector. Optical fiber is mostly used by several telecommunications companies to transmit telephone signals, cable television signals and Internet communication. OPTICAL FIBER MARKET DYNAMICS

Rising Demand for High-Speed Internet to boost Optical Fiber Market growth

With the proliferation of bandwidth-intensive applications such as video streaming, online gaming, and cloud computing, consumers and businesses alike require faster and more reliable internet connections, which significantly boost the Optical Fiber Market growth. Optical fibers enable the transmission of large volumes of data at high speeds over long distances, making them essential for meeting the increasing bandwidth requirements of modern communication networks. The rollout of 5G wireless networks is driving demand for optical fibers as they form the backbone infrastructure for delivering high-speed, low-latency connectivity required by 5G technologies. Optical fibers are used to connect 5G base stations to the core network, enabling the efficient transmission of data between mobile devices and network servers. As 5G adoption continues to expand globally, the demand for optical fiber-based solutions is expected to grow significantly. The rapid growth of cloud computing, big data analytics, and IoT applications is fueling the expansion of data centers worldwide. Optical fibers play a crucial role in data center connectivity, providing high-speed interconnections between servers, storage systems, and networking equipment. As data center operators strive to enhance performance, scalability, and reliability, they are investing in fiber optic infrastructure to support the increasing volume of data traffic and ensure seamless connectivity.

Many governments are implementing initiatives to improve broadband connectivity and digital infrastructure as part of their economic development strategies. These initiatives often involve the deployment of fiber optic networks in urban and rural areas to expand internet access and support digital transformation across various sectors. Government investments in fiber optic infrastructure projects stimulate Optical Fiber market growth by creating opportunities for optical fiber manufacturers, network operators, and technology providers to supply products and services for broadband expansion projects. Ongoing advancements in optical fiber technology drive Optical Fiber market growth by improving fiber optic performance, reliability, and cost-effectiveness. Innovations such as bend-insensitive fibers, low-loss fibers, and hollow-core fibers enable new applications and address challenges related to installation, maintenance, and signal transmission. Research and development efforts focused on enhancing optical fiber materials, manufacturing processes, and signal processing techniques contribute to the development of next-generation fiber optic solutions with higher bandwidth, lower latency, and improved signal quality.

High Installation Costs to limit Optical Fiber Market growth

The adoption of optical fiber networks is the high upfront installation costs. Deploying fiber optic infrastructure requires significant investment in materials, labor, and equipment for laying cables, splicing fibers, and installing network components. The initial capital expenditure associated with fiber optic deployment is prohibitive for some organizations, especially in areas with challenging terrain or limited resources, which is expected to limit the Optical Fiber market growth. Installing optical fiber networks is complex and time-consuming, particularly in urban areas with existing infrastructure and underground utilities. The process involves trenching, boring, and laying cables, which require coordination with local authorities, property owners, and utility companies. Delays and disruptions during the installation process increase project costs and extend deployment timelines, posing challenges for network operators and service providers.

Despite advancements in optical fiber technology, there are still limitations and challenges that need to be addressed. Fiber optic cables are susceptible to damage from environmental factors such as moisture, temperature fluctuations, and physical stress, which degrade signal quality and reliability, which is expected to restrain Optical Fiber Market growth. While optical fiber offers high-speed, high-bandwidth connectivity, it faces competition from alternative technologies such as wireless broadband, satellite internet, and traditional copper-based networks. These alternative solutions offer cost advantages, easier deployment, or greater flexibility in certain scenarios, posing a competitive threat to optical fiber providers. Advancements in wireless technologies such as 5G and Wi-Fi 6 are expanding the range of options for broadband connectivity, creating additional competition for optical fiber networks.

INDIAN RAILWAY SYSTEM MARKET

Indian Railways, the fourth-largest national railway system in the world, plays a pivotal role in India's transportation, infrastructure, and economic growth. As of April 2024, this vast system covers 132,310 kilometres of tracks, of which 58,074 kilometres are electrified. It is a lifeline which connects people and goods across the nation. More than 23 million passengers use this railroad system daily, making it the only mode of conveyance for millions of people.

The importance of modernisation within Indian Railways cannot be undermined, especially considering the growing demand for efficient transportation solutions to cater to India's expanding population and economy. Recent initiatives include "Make in India", under which indigenous projects such as the Vande Bharat Express have been developed and the fabrication of 800 such trains is on course to be completed by 2030.

Integration of technology

The Indian Railways is at the forefront of integrating advanced technology into its operations, enhancing efficiency and customer experience. Artificial Intelligence (AI), IoT, and automation have already replaced many layers of railway management. AI can predict equipment failure before it happens, thus reducing downtime and enabling smoother operations.

IoT devices deployed over the network observe real-time performance of the trains, track and environmental conditions for data-driven decisions. Digital ticketing platforms revolutionized customer service by proving to be an easy avenue for passengers to book tickets, check schedules and get real-time updates about their journey.

High-speed rail projects

High-speed rail projects constitute a giant leap toward modernisation in India's emergent transportation and rail network landscape. The introduction of the Vande Bharat Express trains exemplifies this commitment, with Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi flagging off six new trains on September 15, 2024, extending the fleet from 54 train sets to 60, enabling 120 daily trips. The project aims to cross over 280 districts across 24 states and union territories.

New additions to their routes include Tatanagar-Patna, Brahmapur-Tatanagar, Rourkela-Howrah, Deoghar-Varanasi, Bhagalpur-Howrah, and Gaya-Howrah. This is proof of the railway's effort to improve accessibility across regions.

Infrastructure expansion

The Indian Railways is undergoing significant infrastructure expansion aimed at enhancing connectivity, improving freight efficiency, and modernising existing facilities. Below are the key components of this expansion:

New railway lines and routes

Indian Railways is focusing on the extension of new railway routes, especially in underdeveloped areas, and is striving for better connectivity along with providing a boost to economic development. This includes laying a new line from Pandurangapuram (Visakhapatnam) to Bhadrachalam (Telangana) to Malkangiri (Odisha) and is being taken up as a high-priority endeavour. The estimated cost of the project is Rs. 7,383 crore (US$ 885 million) for a route length of 290 km. This is part of a higher sanctioning involving eight projects across the country with estimated costs of Rs. 24,657 crore (US$ 2.96 billion). This new line, when materialised, will offer an alternative route between Asansol and Warangal to facilitate quick access to the southern states' thermal power plants and aluminium and iron ore industries. It is expected to increase connectivity to the tribal-dominated districts fostering socio-economic development in the extremism-affected areas.

Furthermore, the expansion incorporates the construction of six new rail lines in Odisha at over Rs. 15,000 crore (US$ 1.80 billion) as part of Prime Minister Mr. Narendra Modi's Purvodaya vision. These lines will shorten the travel time between Rayagada, Kalahandi, Nabarangpur, Malkangiri, Keonjhar and Mayurbhanj and facilitate the construction of 64 stations to cover 510 villages, benefiting a population of approximately 40 lakhs. The projects will provide vital routes for transporting commodities like agricultural products, coal, iron ore and cement, while improving mobility and service reliability for the Indian Railways. This expansion is expected to massively increase freight-handling capacity and spur economic growth across the region.

Upgrading existing infrastructure

The Indian railway system is set to undergo a significant upgrade of its existing infrastructure, aiming to enhance passenger experience and operational efficiency. As part of the Budget 2024-25, Union Finance Minister Mrs. Nirmala Sitharaman announced that approximately 2,000 mail and express trains would be revamped to meet Vande Bharat standards, which includes upgrading 40,000 existing bogies with improved acceleration, deceleration, braking systems and other essential components. This initiative will enhance passenger amenities, with improvements to interiors, toilets, couplers, CCTV systems, and berths, elevating the overall travel experience.

In addition to upgrading existing trains, the Indian Railways plans to introduce sleeper facilities for Vande Bharat trains, with the first prototype expected to be ready soon. The goal is to expand the fleet to 75 Vande Bharat trains with seating facilities and 500 with sleeper facilities over the next four years (2024-2028). To fund these upgrades, the Indian Railways has committed to investing Rs. 7 lakh crore (US$ 83.91 billion) over the next decade to lay 50,000 kilometres of new tracks. This initiative is part of the Vision 2047 document, which aims to modernise the network and accommodate high-speed trains like Vande Bharat. The target is to maintain a pace of laying 5,200 kilometres of new tracks annually, focusing on replacing old tracks to ensure a robust infrastructure capable of supporting modern high-speed transportation systems.

Financially, the Indian Railways expects continued support from the central government, with a gross budgetary support (GBS) of Rs. 2,40,200 crore (US$ 29.79 billion) allocated for 2023-24. This support is crucial for financing the capital expenditure aimed at expanding and upgrading the railway network. All new lines are to be designed to accommodate high- and semi-high-speed trains, ensuring the infrastructure can manage speeds of up to 180 km/h, in line with the capabilities of the Vande Bharat trains. These initiatives reflect a commitment to modernise and enhance the efficiency of the rail transport system, improving passenger safety, comfort, and operational efficiency.

Advancing fiber optic management and maintenance for telecom profitability

We focus on optimizing profitability through innovative fiber optic management and maintenance strategies. Optic fiber sharing allows us to significantly reduce infrastructure costs by avoiding redundant investments, such as duplicating cable installations along the same routes. This approach minimizes capital expenditure and directly enhances profitability while ensuring efficient resource utilization.

Our implementation of Fiber-to-the-Home (FTTH) technology replaces traditional copper cables with optical fiber, enabling substantial bandwidth improvements for customers and enhancing the quality-of-service delivery. The proposed optical fiber setup supports multi-dimensional usage, presenting opportunities to collaborate with telecom, internet, and direct-to-home service providers. By promoting the concept of fiber-sharing among telecom operators, we aim to unlock additional revenue streams and drive profitability, leveraging the versatile capabilities of fiber optic technology to meet the growing demands of modern connectivity.

Delivering telecom and networking solutions beyond competitors' reach

Identify remote or underserved areas where there is a lack of telecom and datacom infrastructure. By investing in these areas, we can establish a presence in markets that competitors may overlook due to logistical challenges or lower perceived profitability. We require strategic planning, innovative thinking, and a long-term commitment to overcoming obstacles and meeting the unique needs of underserved communities. By investing in remote and underserved areas, developing innovative deployment strategies, forming partnerships with local stakeholders, offering customized solutions, prioritizing reliability and resilience, maintaining agile and scalable operations, and demonstrating a long-term commitment, we can establish a strong competitive advantage and achieve success in challenging environments.

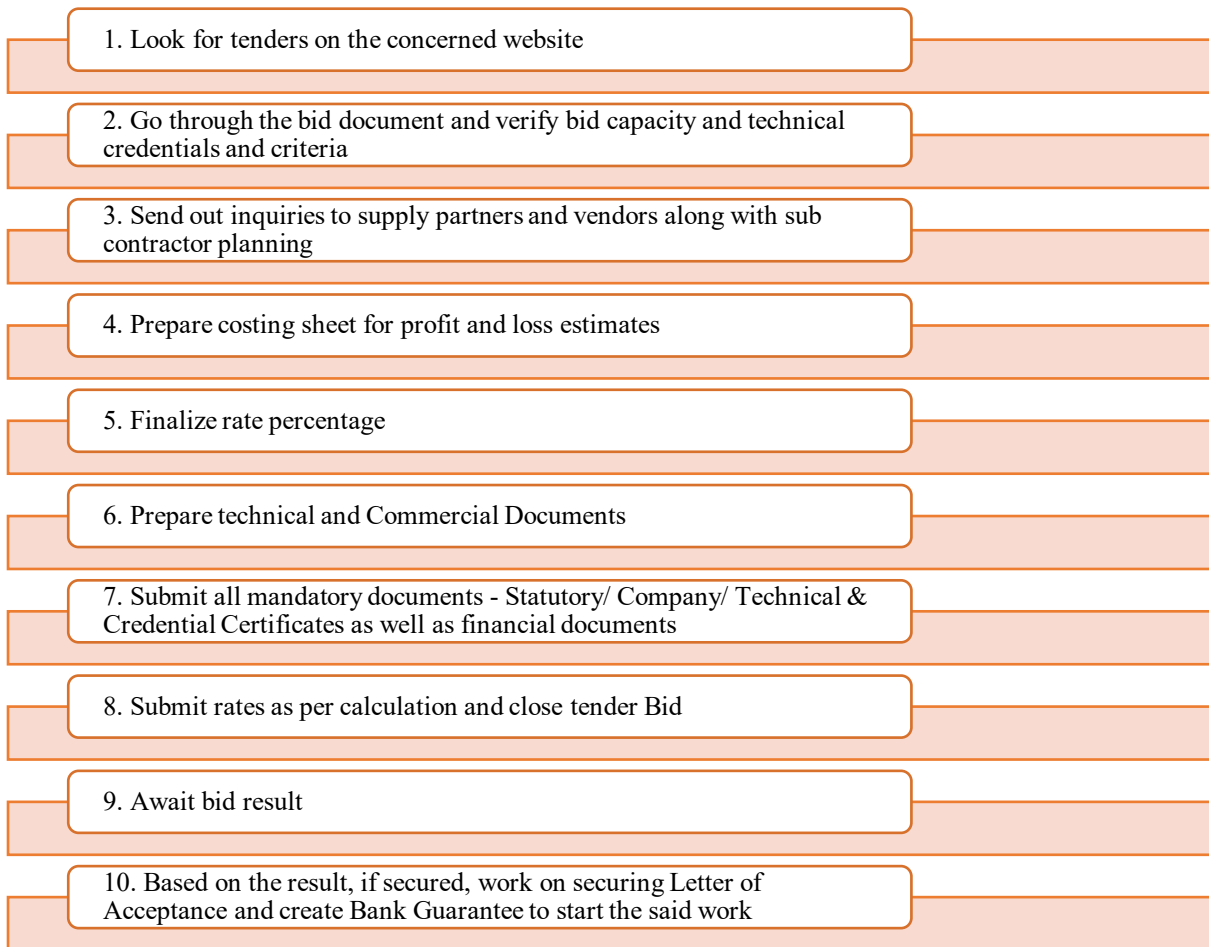

Efficient manpower distribution for seamless site operations

The distribution, maximum utilization, and optimum utilization of manpower are critical for ensuring smooth operations across various sites. Distribution of manpower involves assigning the right number of personnel with the appropriate skills to different sites based on workload, project requirements, and geographical locations. We ensure that each site has a balanced team with the necessary expertise in areas such as networking, installation, maintenance, and troubleshooting by analyzing the workload and requirements of each site to determine the number and types of personnel needed and considering factors such as project complexity, site location, and resource availability. By implementing effective scheduling and resource allocation strategies we efficiently deploy available manpower to complete tasks within the shortest possible time without compromising quality. We continuously monitor and assess workforce performance and productivity to identify areas for improvement and also encourage collaboration and teamwork among employees to leverage collective skills and knowledge.

Introduction of new quality enhancement system

We clearly define quality objectives and establish measurable targets that align with business goals and customer expectations by identify key performance indicators so as to track progress and evaluate the effectiveness of the new quality enhancement system. We are investing in advanced technologies and tools to streamline quality assurance processes, automate repetitive tasks, and enhance data analysis capabilities by implementing quality management software solutions such as project management software to facilitate document control, audit management, corrective action tracking, and performance monitoring.

Process Of Filing a Tender

1. Look for tenders on the concerned website- Firstly, we visit the official website of the railway authority where tenders are published and narrow down the list of tenders to those specifically related to railway services which ensures that we only view tenders that are relevant to our interest in providing railway services.
2. Go through the bid document and verify bid capacity and technical credentials and criteria- We obtain the bid document from the website and assess the financial and operational capacity requirements specified in the bid document which ensures that our organization meets any minimum turnover, financial stability, or insurance requirements that may be specified. Check the technical qualifications and experience required for the railway service tender and thoroughly understand how bids will be evaluated which includes criteria such as technical competence, past performance, compliance with specifications and pricing. We ensure that our bid addresses each evaluation criterion clearly and comprehensively.
3. Send out inquiries to supply partners and vendors along with sub-contractor planning- We determine the types of goods and services we would need from suppliers and vendors to fulfill the requirements and create a list of potential suppliers and vendors who have the capability to meet the technical and operational requirements specified in the tender document. If subcontractors are required for specific aspects of the project, identify suitable subcontractors based on their expertise, capacity, and track record and ensure that the subcontractors meet the same standards and requirements set for primary suppliers and vendors and lastly formalize agreements with chosen suppliers, vendors, and subcontractors through contracts or purchase orders that clearly outline roles, responsibilities, deliverables, timelines, and terms of engagement.

4. Prepare costing sheet for profit and loss estimates- Listing all the anticipated costs associated with executing the services and ensure that all direct and indirect costs are included and estimate the quantities of materials and resources required for the project and determine their respective prices by using recent market rates or supplier quotes to obtain accurate cost estimates. By summing up all direct and indirect costs to determine the total project cost before adding profit margin, we apply the desired profit margin percentage to the total project cost to calculate the amount of profit to be included in the tender. Lastly, we calculate the final tender price by adding the total costs (including profit margin) to ensure the project is financially viable and competitive.
5. Finalize rate percentage- We validate the rate percentage calculation which aligns with our financial goals and the requirements of the tender document and this that the final tender price, including the rate percentage, remains competitive compared to other bids while still achieving the desired profitability. We document the rate percentage calculation and justification in our tender submission and provide transparency regarding how the final tender price was determined.
6. Prepare Technical and Commercial Documents- Technical documents define the scope of work, tasks, deliverables, and technical requirements, outlining the approach and resources needed for project execution. They also include quality management systems to ensure deliverables meet specified standards.

Commercial documents provide detailed cost estimates, terms and conditions, and necessary agreements (service, subcontractor, supplier). They demonstrate financial stability through financial statements, bank guarantees, or proof of insurance, and ensure compliance with regulatory requirements and industry standards, supported by relevant references and case studies.

7. Submit all mandatory documents- Statutory/ Company/ Technical & Credential Certificates as well as financial documents- We provide statutory documents including proof of company registration, tax compliance certificates, and evidence of legal and regulatory adherence. Company documents include our organizational structure, audited financial statements, and proof of insurance coverage. Technical and credential certificates demonstrate our qualifications through relevant licenses and past project testimonials. Financial documents detail project cost estimates and, where required, include bank guarantees or performance bonds to assure financial commitment.
8. Submit rates as per calculation and close tender Bid- We calculate the total project costs, including direct and indirect expenses, and apply a markup to cover profit and overheads. A detailed cost breakdown justifies the proposed rates, which are presented in a structured format aligned with tender requirements. After reviewing all documentation for accuracy and compliance with specifications and deadlines, we submit the bid before the deadline, following the required submission method, and seek acknowledgment of receipt from the tendering authority.
9. Await bid results- The tendering authority reviews all bids based on criteria such as technical capabilities, pricing, compliance, and deadlines. The review duration varies based on project complexity and bid volume. If selected for negotiation, be prepared to discuss and adjust pricing, terms, or project details. Await notification on the bid outcome, which will include success status and any feedback or next steps.
10. Based on the result, if secured, work on securing Letter of Acceptance (LOA) and create Bank Guarantee (BG) to start the said work- Upon securing the contract, we receive formal notification of award from the tendering authority, confirming our successful bid. Negotiations follow to finalize terms, leading to the issuance of the Letter of Acceptance (LOA), which marks the project's start. We then request our bank to issue the required Bank Guarantee(s) as per the contract and LOA. Upon approval, the bank issues the BG(s) in favor of the tendering authority.

BUSINESS MODEL OF RAILWAYS

1. Preparing site report- Firstly we conduct a comprehensive survey of the railway tracks to assess the terrain, existing infrastructure, and any potential obstacles or challenges and also identify suitable locations for laying the optical fiber cable, considering factors such as accessibility, proximity to existing utility lines, and minimizing disruption to railway operations.
2. Route survey and design- Identifying key areas where optical fiber cables need to be laid, considering factors such as coverage requirements, data transmission needs, and connectivity to critical infrastructure, we design the route for laying the cables, taking into account the shortest and most efficient paths while minimizing disruptions to railway operations and minimizing environmental impact. Hences, our engineers develop plans and specifications for the cable laying process.
3. Distribution of Manpower- Distributing manpower effectively when laying the cables along railway tracks is crucial for ensuring the project progresses smoothly while maintaining safety and efficiency. The size and composition of labourers depend on the scope and complexity of the project. For larger projects covering extensive railway tracks, multiple labours may be deployed simultaneously to work on different sections.
4. Providing Raw Material's - Choose the appropriate type cables based on project requirements, such as fiber count, transmission capacity, and environmental conditions along the railway tracks (e.g., weather resistance, resistance to electromagnetic interference). We source optical fiber cables from manufacturers or suppliers who can provide high-quality products that meet industry standards and project specifications. Determine the quantity of the raw materials needed based on the length of the railway tracks to be covered, the route configuration, and any redundancy requirements for backup or future expansion.
5. Procurement and Logistics- We coordinate logistics for transportation, storage, and delivery of materials to the project site, ensuring timely availability and efficient use of resources. Coordinate transportation logistics to deliver materials to the project site and plan access routes to the railway tracks for transporting materials and equipment. Coordinate with railway authorities to obtain permission for access and schedule deliveries during off-peak hours to minimize disruption to railway operation.

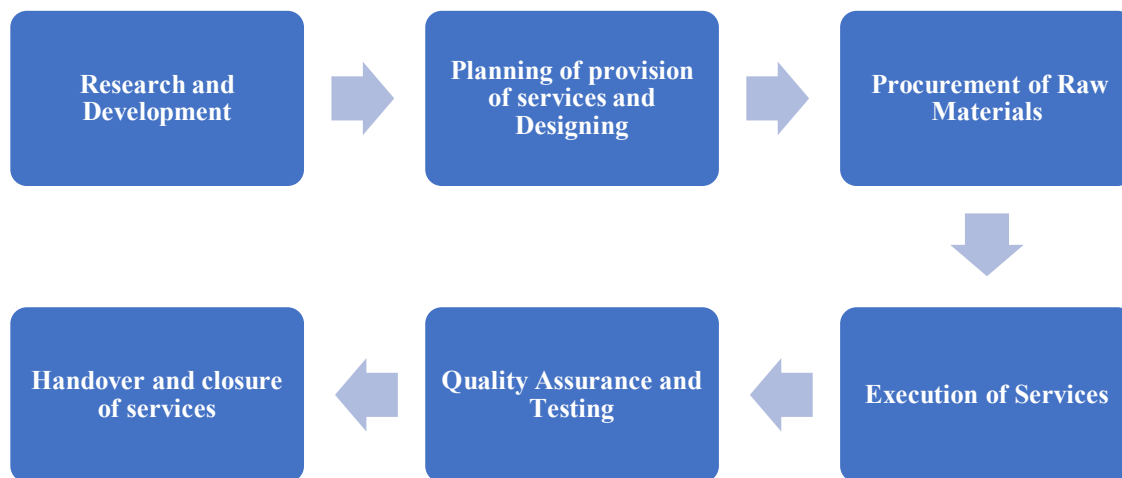

The company collaborates with a third-party vendor for logistics, while clients also prefer to use their own vendors for material delivery to project sites. This flexibility ensures the timely delivery of raw materials, regardless of the chosen logistics partner. By offering these options, the company enhances operational efficiency and caters to varying client preferences for project execution.

6. Work-in-Progress- The project managers or the railway officers visit the on-going sites time to time to check upon the work in progress. When laying the cables along railway tracks, managing work-in-progress (WIP) is essential for ensuring the project progresses smoothly, efficiently, and safely. The project managers track the progress of each construction phase to monitor WIP and ensure that work proceeds according to schedule. Regular meetings, progress reports, and project updates facilitate collaboration and ensure that all parties are aligned on project objectives, timelines, and requirements.
7. Quality Check, Commissioning and Handover the site- Quality assurance measures are implemented throughout the project to maintain standards and ensure the integrity of the network. Whereas, inspections, testing, and compliance checks are conducted at various stages of construction to identify and address any issues or deviations from specifications. After conducting final testing, verification, and acceptance of the optical fiber network before commissioning it for operational use we prepare operation and maintenance manuals, training materials, and documentation for railway personnel responsible for managing and maintaining the optical fiber infrastructure. Finally, we hand over the completed project to the railway operator or owner, ensuring a smooth transition to operational phase and ongoing support as needed.

The following timelines are dependent on the overall project duration and the intensity of the tasks involved. Each project varies based on its specific requirements, which can differ significantly from task to task.

BUSINESS MODEL OF OTHER SERVICES

1. Research and Development- Research and development in optical fiber cables are essential for driving innovation, improving performance, and advancing the capabilities of railway, datacom, and telecom sectors. Stakeholders can address current challenges, unlock new opportunities, and stay ahead of technological advancements to build robust, resilient, and future-proof communication networks. The process begins with research and development efforts to innovate and improve optical fiber cable technology. This stage involves conducting research into new materials, techniques and designs to enhance the performance, durability, and cost-effectiveness of cables.
2. Planning of provision of services and Designing- By analyzing current network performance and capacity to determine where upgrades or new installations are necessary the engineers strategically map out where and how services will be provided using the cables and identify target areas for network expansion or improvement based on factors like population density, existing infrastructure, market demand, and projected growth. By determining the optimal routes for laying cables they plan for scalability and future growth by designing a flexible network architecture that can accommodate increasing bandwidth demands and technological advancements.
3. Procurement of Raw Materials- Establishing relationships with trusted suppliers who can consistently meet our requirements for raw materials so as to identify and evaluate potential suppliers based on factors such as quality, reliability, cost, lead times, and geographic proximity. Thereafter drafting and finalizing contracts or purchase agreements that clearly outline the rights and responsibilities of both parties. Lastly, conducting testing and inspection of incoming raw materials and maintaining adequate inventory levels.
4. Execution of services- Installation methods may vary depending on factors such as the environment (aerial, underground, indoor), distance, terrain, and existing infrastructure. Once cables are installed, they need to be spliced and terminated to establish connections between fiber strands and network equipment. Then connectors are attached to fiber ends using epoxy or mechanical fastening techniques, allowing them to be plugged into optical transceivers or other network devices.
5. Quality Assurance and Testing- Optical fiber cables undergo rigorous testing to verify their performance, reliability, and durability. This includes testing for optical signal transmission, mechanical strength, environmental resistance (e.g., temperature, moisture), and compliance with industry standards. Fiber optic cables undergo rigorous testing to validate their mechanical, optical, and environmental performance characteristics. After installation, comprehensive testing is conducted to verify the performance and reliability of the cables.
6. Handover and Closure of services- Once the installation of cables and associated network infrastructure is completed, the project team conducts a final inspection to ensure that all work meets the specified requirements and standards. A handover meeting is typically held between the project team and the operations or maintenance team responsible for ongoing support and management of the network. During this meeting, project documentation and responsibilities are transferred to the operations team, and any outstanding issues or concerns are addressed. The operations team reviews the documentation provided during the handover process to ensure completeness and accuracy, any discrepancies or missing information are addressed. Feedback from customers or end-users is solicited to assess their satisfaction with the installed services and address any concerns or issues that may arise. Once all project deliverables have been completed to the satisfaction of the customer and all contractual obligations have been fulfilled, the project is officially closed.

RAILWAY WORKING PROCESS

- 1. Winning of the Tender- The railway authority or operator announces a tender, detailing the scope of work, requirements, and conditions and all the interested companies may need to undergo a prequalification process to ensure they meet certain criteria such as financial stability, technical capability, safety record, and experience. Qualified companies submit their bids, which include proposed costs, project timelines, technical solutions, and other relevant details and therefore the submitted bids are evaluated based on various criteria, which may include price competitiveness, technical compliance, track record, and sustainability considerations. The contract is then awarded to the company whose bid is deemed most advantageous according to the evaluation criteria. This is how our company is said to have "won the tender".

2. Document of Letter of Acceptance (LOA)- The Document of Letter of Acceptance is a critical milestone in the tendering process for the services, marking the official acknowledgment and acceptance of the winning bid, and initiating the pathway towards the formalization of the contractual relationship between the railway authority and the company. This document typically outlines the terms and conditions under which the company is expected to execute the project or provide the services. While the LOA outlines the basic terms of agreement, it may still require further negotiations to finalize the contract details, such as payment terms, indemnification clauses, warranties, and other legal aspects. The document specifies a validity period within which we must accept the terms and conditions which ensures timely commencement of the project and avoid delays in contract execution.
3. Submission of Bank Guarantee (BG)- The Submission of Bank Guarantee acts as a form of financial security for the railway authority which ensures that the company has the necessary financial backing to fulfill the contractual obligations as outlined in the LOA. The BG assures the client that the company will execute the project or provide the services according to the agreed terms and conditions. The BG in our case usually has a 21 days validity period where we have to submit it and usually it is 5% of the contract value. Upon successful completion of the contract as per the terms agreed upon in the LOA, the BG is typically returned or released back to the company by railway authority.
4. Contract Agreement- The Contract Agreement is a critical document that formalizes the terms and conditions of the business relationship between the client and the service provider. It ensures clarity, accountability, and legal protection for both parties throughout the duration of the contract. It details all terms and conditions agreed upon between the client and the service provider which includes scope of work, project milestones and timelines, performance standards, payment terms, responsibilities and obligations, etc. It ensures that both parties understand their rights and obligations and provides a framework for resolving any disputes that may arise during the contract period. Once signed by both parties, the Agreement signifies the official commencement of the project or service delivery. It provides a roadmap for executing the agreed-upon services, monitoring progress, and ensuring compliance with contractual obligations.
5. Commencement of Work- Commencement of work involves planning, effective communication, and diligent execution to deliver the agreed-upon services or projects on time, within budget, and to the client's satisfaction. Often, a kick-off meeting is held between the client and the company to discuss project specifics, clarify roles and responsibilities, review project plans and timelines, and address any initial concerns or questions. This meeting sets the tone for collaboration and communication throughout the project duration. The work can either be Outdoor Work or Indoor Work.

A. OUTDOOR WORK

- Supplying of Raw Materials- Supplying raw materials involves meticulous planning, procurement, deployment, and maintenance of optical fiber networks to enhance railway communication, signaling, and operational efficiency while ensuring safety and reliability along railway infrastructure. In railways we supply raw materials through either our vendors or from the vendors specified by the client depending upon the value of the raw materials required for the project. The materials selected goes through a quality check process by the appointed authorities, whose approvals makes the materials ready for use.

- Trenching/Excavation- Before trenching or excavation begins, thorough planning and surveying are conducted to determine the optimal route for laying optical fiber cables. We clear vegetation, mark boundaries, and ensure safe access to the work area for equipment and personnel. We implement safety protocols to protect workers, railway operations, and the environment during trenching or excavation activities. We use specialized excavation equipment to dig trenches alongside railway tracks to create pathways for laying optical fiber cables to the specified depth and width necessary to accommodate the optical fiber cables (OFC).
- Laying of Cables and Pipe- Optical fiber cables and pipes are carefully placed inside the conduits. Special care is taken to ensure they are laid out in a manner that minimizes stress and potential damage from vibrations caused by passing trains. Conduits are often used to protect optical fiber cables and pipes from external damage and environmental factors. These conduits are placed within the trench after it has been prepared, ensuring a secure pathway for the cables and pipes.
- Back-filling and Concreting- The trench is filled with suitable back-fill material which is layered in increments and compacted using suitable machinery to ensure it settles evenly and provides adequate support to the optical fiber cables and pipes. Proper care is taken during the back-filling process to avoid damaging the newly laid cables and pipes. Once the trench is filled and compacted to the required levels, the surface is leveled and prepared for the next phase, which involves concreting. Concreting is often used in railway applications to provide additional structural support and stability, particularly in areas where heavy loads or frequent train movements are expected. It helps to protect the cables and pipes from external pressures and ensures long-term durability of the installation. Throughout the back-filling and concreting processes, quality assurance measures are implemented to ensure that all work meets relevant railway standards and specifications.
- Commissioning with Indoor Equipment's- A thorough inspection of the installed cables, conduits, and related infrastructure is conducted to verify that they meet design specifications and are free from any physical damage or defects that could affect performance. Indoor equipment such as fiber optic termination boxes, splice enclosures, power supplies, and network management systems are installed according to engineering drawings and installation guidelines. The optical fiber cables that were laid outside are terminated inside these enclosures. This involves carefully stripping the cable jacket, cleaning and splicing fibers if necessary, and securing them within the termination points.
- Tracing the Fiber- Throughout the installation and commissioning phases, detailed records are maintained. As-built drawings are updated to accurately reflect the installed infrastructure. These drawings provide a visual representation of the optical fiber cable routes and associated equipment placements. Optical Time-Domain Reflectometer (OTDR) device is commonly used to trace optical fiber cables. It sends pulses of light into the fiber and measures the reflections to identify the location and integrity of the cable. OTDR is primarily used to pinpoint the location of faults or breaks in the optical fiber cable. This is essential for troubleshooting and restoring service quickly in case of disruptions. The OTDR emits short pulses of laser light into the fiber optic cable and measures the intensity and time delay of light reflections (backscattered light) to determine the distance to these events. It collects data points along the length of the fiber, creating a trace that graphically represents signal loss and reflections. This trace helps technicians analyze the condition of the fiber optic cable. It traces highlight anomalies such as breaks or excessive loss points that indicate potential faults or degradation in the cable.
- Complete termination of Fiber and other cables- Complete termination involves properly connecting and securing the fiber ends to ensure minimal signal loss and to facilitate easier detection and repair of any faults that may occur in the future. This proactive maintenance approach minimizes downtime and ensures continuous service reliability. Properly terminated cables reduce the risk of signal interference or failure, which could potentially compromise safety measures such as automated signaling, track monitoring, and control systems. Railway networks often operate under stringent regulatory standards and requirements. Properly terminated cables meet these standards, ensuring that the network complies with safety and operational regulations set by railway authorities.
- Integration of Equipment's- Railway service providers need to ensure that the equipment to be integrated is compatible with the terminated fiber optic cables. Integration starts with installing the necessary racks or cabinets if they are not already in place. These racks provide physical support, power distribution, and cable management for the equipment. Once the equipment racks are ready, the terminated fiber optic cables are connected to the respective equipment. After physical connections are made, the equipment is powered up and undergoes rigorous testing procedures. Throughout the integration process, thorough documentation is maintained detailing equipment specifications, cable routing diagrams, configuration settings, test results, and any modifications made during integration.

- Quality Check- Conducting thorough quality checks is essential to ensure that the communication and signaling systems operate reliably and meet the stringent requirements of railway operations. Technicians conduct performance tests to evaluate the overall network functionality and throughput. Configuration settings and network protocols are verified to ensure consistency and compatibility with the railway service provider's network standards. Safety checks ensure that equipment installations comply with safety standards and regulations applicable to railway environments. Comprehensive documentation of all quality check procedures, test results, and any corrective actions taken is crucial. This documentation provides a record of compliance with regulatory requirements and serves as a reference for future maintenance and troubleshooting.
- Handover of the site- Before the handover, rigorous testing is conducted to verify the functionality and performance of the optical fiber network. Detailed documentation is prepared, including network diagrams, installation records, test reports, and compliance certificates. This documentation is crucial for future maintenance, troubleshooting, and regulatory purposes. A final inspection is typically carried out by the project manager to ensure that all aspects of the installation and integration meet the required standards and specifications. Once all quality checks are completed satisfactorily, the formal handover process begins which involves transferring responsibility for the optical fiber network from the project team to the railway operator.

B. INDOOR WORK

- Supply Raw Materials and equipment's- The first step is to identify and specify the required raw materials and equipment for setting up OFC rooms. This includes optical fiber cables, connectors, patch panels, racks, cabinets, power distribution units (PDUs), cooling systems (if necessary), and other associated components. Once the specifications are determined, the procurement team identifies reliable suppliers or manufacturers for each item.
- Create Design and Fabrication- We develop a preliminary layout for each OFC room based on the site survey and requirements. By specifying electrical requirements, including power distribution, backup power (UPS), and grounding, we design Heating, Ventilation and Air conditioning (HVAC) systems for temperature control and ventilation to ensure equipment reliability and longevity. By procuring necessary materials and equipment based on the approved design specifications, we ensure adherence to quality standards and compatibility with the railway industry's operational requirements and fabricate custom components as needed. Lastly, coordinate installation activities with skilled technicians or contractors and ensure that all components are installed according to design specifications, safety protocols, and manufacturer recommendations.
- Installation in each station- We have to conduct a detailed survey of the railway station to identify the optimal locations for OFC rooms based on network requirements and accessibility. Install equipment racks in designated OFC room locations which will hold the necessary networking components, lay down cable trays to organize and route the OFC cables neatly throughout the station and pull and terminate optical fiber cables according to the network design.
- Programming to check seamless working- We ensure seamless connectivity across equipment in OFC rooms by monitoring network traffic, testing critical services, and verifying bandwidth, latency, and packet flow to meet operational needs. Our process includes vulnerability scans, firewall validation, and continuous monitoring of network health, device status, and traffic patterns, with alerts for anomalies like high latency or packet loss. We configure logging for detailed event tracking and generate performance reports to identify trends and address potential issues proactively. This comprehensive approach ensures secure, efficient, and reliable network operations.
- Network Management System (NMS) is applied- We select an NMS platform that supports SNMP (Simple Network Management Protocol) for device monitoring and management. Thereafter integrate the NMS with other operational systems to provide a comprehensive view of the network's impact on railway operations. Document procedures and guidelines for using the NMS to maintain consistency and operational efficiency.

- Creation of OFC Rooms- We conduct rigorous testing of all network services and applications running through the OFC rooms to ensure they operate as expected and create comprehensive as-built documentation detailing the physical layout, cable routes, device configurations, and test results. This documentation serves as a reference for future maintenance and upgrades. Lastly, establish a proactive maintenance plan that includes regular inspections, firmware updates, and performance optimizations to ensure continued smooth operation of the OFC rooms.

6. Creation of site register- The site register is a vital tool for monitoring, tracking, and managing railway operations effectively. It provides a detailed record of site-specific activities, ensuring transparency and accountability. Key elements of the register include:

- a) Site Details: Clearly identifies the site location and provides a chronological record of activities with date and time stamps.
- b) Scope and Purpose: Defines the scope of operations and the intended use of the register.
- c) Activity Documentation: Logs significant activities, events, incidents, accidents, and operational challenges.
- d) Inspection Records: Includes dates and outcomes of inspections.
- e) Material and Personnel Tracking: Maintains a list of delivered materials and tracks on-site personnel.
- f) Data Accuracy: Provides concise descriptions, incorporates quantitative data, and aligns with relevant technical specifications.

A well-organized site register enhances operational efficiency, streamlines documentation, and supports effective management of railway infrastructure projects.

7. Creation of Measurement Book (MB)- The Measurement Book (MB) is a formal record documenting key measurements during project activities, such as quantities, dimensions, levels, and distances. It includes:

- a) Quantities and Materials: Tracks lengths of tracks laid, volume of ballast used, and materials delivered.
- b) Distances: Records distances between key points like tracks, signals, or clearances.
- c) Methodology: Clearly describes what is being measured and the measurement methods used.
- d) Record Maintenance: Ensures secure, organized documentation throughout the project and proper archiving post-completion, adhering to regulatory and organizational policies.

The MB is critical for project management, accountability, and compliance, supporting decision-making and adherence to standards.

8. Verification of Measurement Book (MB)- Measurement verification ensures that recorded measurements align with actual conditions and project specifications. Key aspects include:

- a) Authorized Oversight: Designated personnel validate recorded measurements, ensuring accuracy and reliability using appropriate tools and methods.
- b) Standardized Protocols: Verification follows established procedures outlined in project quality plans or regulatory guidelines.
- c) Documentation: All verification activities are thoroughly documented to maintain traceability for audits and compliance.
- d) Continuous Improvement: Feedback from verification activities is used to refine processes, enhancing accuracy and efficiency in future measurement recordings.

This robust verification process ensures that decisions based on recorded measurements are accurate, supporting safe and efficient railway operations.

9. Online signing of Measurement Book (MB)- We employ a digital platform for recording and managing measurements during field activities, ensuring real-time data capture, accuracy, and security. Authorized personnel review and approve entries through assigned roles, with digital signatures providing secure and legally recognized authentication. This system integrates seamlessly into project workflows and quality assurance processes, contributing to comprehensive documentation, compliance, and efficient decision-making, thereby enhancing the safety and success of railway operations.
10. Online Billing-We leverage authenticated measurements from the signed measurement book to automate invoice generation within the billing system, ensuring accuracy and efficiency. The system calculates charges based on predefined rates, quantities, or contractual terms. A structured workflow enables project managers or finance officers to review and approve invoices before electronic submission to stakeholders. Invoices are delivered securely and monitored to track payment status, ensuring timely fund receipt. Payment reconciliation processes are integrated to align invoices with received payments, enhancing financial accuracy and accountability.
11. Invoice Generated- The billing system electronically generates invoices based on recorded measurements, detailing the work completed, unit prices, quantities, and total amount due. Authorized personnel review the invoice for accuracy and compliance with contract terms, cross-referencing supporting documents such as the signed measurement book and work completion reports. Upon verification and approval, the invoice is securely submitted through electronic channels or designated industry portals.
12. Completion Certificate Received- Upon payment or alongside invoice submission, a completion certificate may be issued by the designated authority, confirming that the work has been satisfactorily completed per agreed specifications and standards. The certificate details project scope, compliance, quality, and acceptance, and is archived for future reference, audits, or disputes. This ensures a structured record of project completion and financial transactions, supporting successful project delivery and adherence to industry standards.

TELECOM WORKING PROCESS – 1

LOCAL CABLE OPERATOR (LCO)

We operate as an LCO at the local level, providing services to residential and commercial customers within a specific geographic area. We typically deliver programming through a network of optical fiber cables that connect directly to customer's home or business. Here, we partner with a local company to extend its digital (Direct-to-Home or DTH) services to customers in specific localities or regions. We operate within defined geographic areas, providing local support and services to subscribers in those regions. We perform these kinds of services in many states like West Bengal, Orissa, Assam, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, Gujarat, etc. Services we provide here are Cabling and Fat Box Connectivity.

Cabling- We are responsible for installing and maintaining the physical cabling infrastructure required to deliver signals to subscribers' premises. This infrastructure typically consists of fiber-optic cables that connect from the distribution center to individual homes or buildings. We ensure that the cabling network is in good condition and regularly maintained to prevent signal degradation or interruptions.

Fat Box Connectivity- Fat box connectivity implies a connection with significant bandwidth capacity which allows large amounts of data to be transmitted efficiently and reliably. It is a reliable network connection that is stable and less prone to interruptions or latency issues, which is crucial for applications requiring constant data flow without disruptions. We deploy these Fat boxes in enterprise environments where there is a need for reliable, fast, and scalable network connectivity. These boxes can support multiple users, devices, and applications simultaneously without compromising performance.

IN-BUILDING WIRING (IBW)

In Building Wiring (IBW) is specifically performed in infrastructure and cabling systems used to provide telecommunications services within a building or facility. Optical fiber cables in IBW are structured to distribute telecommunications signals throughout a building efficiently. These cables are deployed horizontally within the building to connect the main distribution frame (MDF) to intermediate distribution frames (IDFs) located on each floor or in strategic areas. Here we do wire, piping, trenching, laying, ducting, fat box installation, etc. We perform these services in Kolkata and Hyderabad.

Wiring- Under this, we lay down optical fiber cables in a structured manner to create a network infrastructure within a building or between buildings which includes planning the routes, securing cables in conduits or cable trays, and ensuring proper connections between distribution points.

Piping- Under this, the use of pipes or conduits to protect and route optical fiber cables underground or within buildings, piping helps organize and protect cables from physical damage and environmental factors such as moisture or rodents.

Trenching- Under this, we dig trenches in the ground to lay optical fiber cables which are typically used for outdoor installations where cables need to be buried underground. By doing trenching, cables are protected and reduces the risk of accidental damage.

Laying: We encompass the entire process of deploying optical fiber cables, whether it's indoors or outdoors which includes laying cables in conduits, trenches, or directly within designated pathways while ensuring they are securely fixed and properly aligned.

Ducting: Here, the installation of ducts or conduits designed to house and protect optical fiber cables. Ducting is crucial for organizing cables, facilitating future maintenance or upgrades, and protecting cables from environmental hazards.

Fat Box Installation: By installing a "fat box" we mount a larger junction box or enclosure to house and manage optical fiber connections. These boxes are used to consolidate multiple cable terminations and provide a central point for accessing and troubleshooting connections.

FIBER TO THE HOME (FTTH)

FTTH uses optical fiber cables to transmit data as light pulses, offering higher speeds and greater capacity than copper cables. It connects homes directly from the service provider's central office, eliminating the need for intermediate copper infrastructure. Our services, including trenching, HDD, chamber installation, and closure joint, have been executed in parts of Kolkata. These activities ensure reliable FTTH connectivity, with careful planning and adherence to safety regulations, environmental considerations, and local ordinances to minimize disruption and enhance network longevity, supporting efficient broadband access and high-speed internet delivery.

Outdoor Work- It refers to all activities conducted outside buildings or in outdoor environments to install and maintain FTTH infrastructure which includes laying fiber optic cables, installing equipment enclosures, and performing necessary groundwork.

Trenching- Under this, we excavate narrow trenches in the ground to bury optical fiber cables. It is typically used in urban, suburban, or rural areas where direct burial of cables is feasible. Trenching ensures cables are protected from physical damage and environmental factors while also providing easy access for future maintenance or repairs.

Horizontal Directional Drilling (HDD)- HDD is an alternative method to trenching, particularly it is useful in urban areas where traditional trenching may not be practical due to obstacles like roads, railways, or existing infrastructure. This includes drilling a borehole underground and then pulling fiber optic cables through the drilled path. This minimizes disruption to the surface and reduces the need for extensive excavation.

Chamber Installation- Chambers, also known as manholes or handholes, are underground enclosures used for housing fiber optic cable splices, connections, and other equipment. These chambers provide access points for technicians to perform maintenance, inspections, and repairs without needing to excavate the entire cable route.

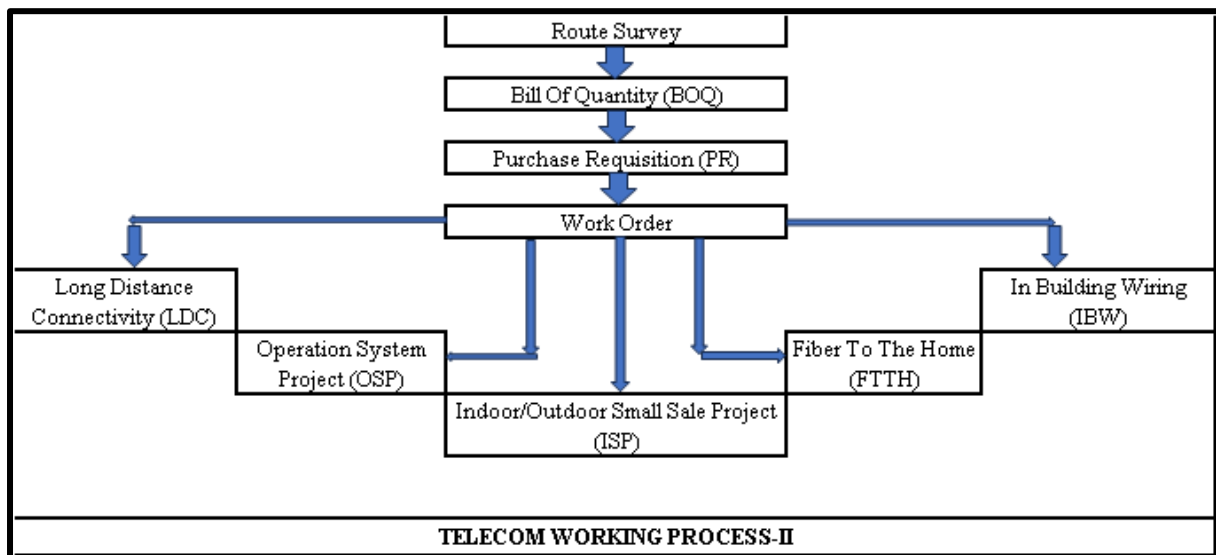

Closure Joint- Closure joints are protective enclosures used to terminate, splice, or protect optical fiber cables. They come in various designs and sizes, depending on the application and environment. These joints ensure that fiber connections are securely sealed against moisture, dirt, and other contaminants that could degrade signal quality.

WORKING PROCESS

1. Work Order Received- The work order includes a clear description of the tasks to be carried out and it also specifies technical details such as the type of fiber optic cables to be used, connectors, splicing methods, and any specialized equipment required for the task. It includes scheduling information, such as the start and completion dates/times, as well as logistical details like site access permissions, safety protocols, and contact information for key personnel. Therefore, refers to a formal document or directive that outlines specific tasks or services to be performed.
2. Site Inspection- Our technicians conduct a thorough survey of the site to assess current conditions and verify the feasibility of the planned activities. They may measure distances, inspect existing infrastructure and evaluate environmental factors. They identify specific requirements for installation, such as suitable locations for equipment placement, potential obstacles, and any need for additional materials or specialized tools. Thereafter, provide a detailed report to the team, highlighting key findings, recommendations, and any adjustments needed to the original work order. They collaborate on planning the next steps based on the site inspection outcomes, ensuring alignment with project timelines and objectives and confirm that safety protocols are adhered to throughout the site inspection, addressing any potential hazards or risks promptly.
3. Purchased Order (PO) raised- Our team generates a purchase order detailing the items to be purchased, quantities, unit prices, total cost, delivery terms, and any special instructions or specifications. The PO may need to go through an approval process within the organization, involving stakeholders such as project managers, finance department, and senior management and this approval ensures that the procurement aligns with budgetary constraints, project timelines, and strategic objectives.

4. Work Commencement- Prior to commencing work, we prepare the site where installation, maintenance, or upgrades are to take place which involve clearing access routes, ensuring safety measures are in place, and coordinating with property owners or stakeholders to facilitate smooth project execution. Qualified technicians and engineers are deployed to the site, equipped with the necessary tools, equipment, and materials specified in the PO and they conduct a final assessment of the site conditions and confirm that all logistical arrangements are in place to support efficient work execution.
5. Acceptance Test (Verification)- This involves scheduling the test, assembling necessary testing equipment and ensuring access to all relevant areas of the network. Qualified technicians and engineers conduct a series of tests based on the agreed-upon acceptance criteria which includes fiber continuity, loss testing, OTDR testing, bandwidth and performance testing, end to end connectivity, etc. Technicians meticulously document test results, noting any deviations from expected performance levels and any corrective actions taken and a comprehensive acceptance test report is prepared, summarizing findings, validating compliance with acceptance criteria, and identifying any outstanding issues or recommendations for improvement.
6. Close of Work Order- Closing a work order involves meticulous attention to detail, thorough documentation, and effective communication with stakeholders to ensure a smooth transition from project completion to ongoing operational management. By following structured processes and best practices, we enhance customer relationships, optimize project outcomes, and drive continuous improvement in service delivery.
7. Process of Billing- Under this, we firstly review all relevant documentation related to the project site which includes work order details, purchase order, acceptance test and close of work order and based on that the team calculates the total cost incurred during the project. Using these calculated costs, invoices are prepared and generated which includes billing details, client information, breakdown of charges, any applicable taxes, payment terms, etc. Before sending out these invoices, they are reviewed internally to ensure accuracy and completeness and later an approval from the project manager may be required to authorize the invoice issuance. Once approved, invoices are sent to the client.

TELECOM WORKING PROCESS – 2

1. Route Survey- The primary goal of a route survey is to identify the best possible routes for laying optical fiber cables which includes evaluating existing infrastructure, such as underground conduits, utility poles, or existing ducts, to determine the most efficient and cost-effective pathway. This survey helps us identify potential obstacles or challenges along the route, if any such condition prevails our technicians visit the proposed route and detailed mapping and documentation is created. Technicians calculate the optimal placement of splice points, distribution points and termination points along the route to ensure efficient signal transmission and easy maintenance. By carefully planning the route, we can minimize the cost associated with construction and maintenance. Proper planning reduces the risk of unexpected disruptions which leads to quicker deployment and fewer service interruptions and also ensures longevity and reliability of the network.

2. Bill Of Quantity (BOQ)- A Bill of Quantities is a detailed document that lists and quantifies all the materials, parts, equipment, and labor required for a specific project. This includes the optical fiber cables themselves, as well as supporting materials such as ducts, conduits, connectors, splices, distribution boxes, and protective equipment like manholes or cabinets. It has a detailed breakdown of the types and quantities of labor required and this may also include subcontractor costs if specialized skills are needed. This bill provides a reliable basis for estimating the total cost of the project by detailing the exact quantities and specifications of materials and equipment needed. It serves as a reference point throughout, ensuring that the installation proceeds according to plan and within budget which helps in tracking expenses and managing resources effectively. The BOQ is prepared based on the findings and requirements identified during the route survey and each item in the BOQ is accompanied by detailed specifications to ensure that the materials and equipment meet the technical requirements of the project.
3. Purchase requisition (PR)- It serves as an internal authorization document that initiates the procurement process. The PR is typically generated by the project manager or the engineering team responsible for overseeing the installation project. The PR undergoes an approval process within the organization depending on the company's procedures. The PR may include budget allocations or cost estimates associated with each item which helps in financial planning and ensures that expenditures are within approved project budgets. Depending on the procurement strategy, the PR may specify preferred suppliers or indicate that competitive bids are required for certain items. It provides a control mechanism to manage expenditures and track procurement activities which ensures that purchases are made in accordance with project specifications and budgetary constraints. Lastly, it serves as a critical piece of documentation throughout the project lifecycle and provides a clear audit trail of procurement decisions and approvals, which is essential for project management and compliance purposes.
4. Work Order- It serves as official authorization for the commencement of work as outlined in the approved project plans and specifications. It specifies the scope of work, timelines, and any special instructions relevant to the installation. It provides detailed instructions regarding the tasks to be performed and allocates resources such as labor, equipment, and materials necessary for the successful execution of the project. It includes project details, scope of work, schedule, materials & equipment's and safety & compliance. It facilitates effective coordination between different teams and departments involved in the project, ensuring everyone understands their roles and responsibilities and serves as a formal record of the tasks authorized and the resources allocated.

LONG DISTANCE CONNECTIVITY (LDC)

Long distance connectivity, refers to the ability to establish and maintain high-speed data transmission over significant geographical distances. Optical fiber cables are crucial in enabling long distance connectivity due to their ability to transmit data using light signals, providing several advantages over traditional copper cables, including higher bandwidth, lower latency, and immunity to electromagnetic interference. We build and maintain extensive optical fiber networks that form the backbone of long-distance connectivity. These networks span across cities, regions, and sometimes continents, interconnected through fiber optic cables laid along terrestrial and submarine routes. It involves horizontal directional drilling and open trenching. We have provided these types of services in states like West Bengal, Jharkhand and Orissa.

OPERATION SYSTEM PROJECT (OSP)

Conducting comprehensive assessments of existing network infrastructure in each city to identify strengths, weaknesses, and areas for improvement which includes evaluating coverage, capacity, and quality of service metrics and developing upgrade plans tailored to each city based on assessment findings which involve deploying new equipment, upgrading existing hardware, and expanding network capacity to meet growing demands. Advanced technologies are introducing such as 5G and fiber optics to enhance network performance, reliability, and scalability across different urban and suburban landscapes. It implements tools and systems for real-time monitoring of network elements, such as routers, switches, and optical fiber cables and includes monitoring performance metrics. It automates fault detection processes to identify and resolve network issues promptly and ensures minimal downtime and improves network reliability. This is specifically used in Jharkhand.

INDOOR/OUTDOOR SMALL CELL PROJECT (ISP)

Small cells are low-powered cellular radio access nodes that operate in licensed and unlicensed spectrum, typically covering smaller geographical areas compared to traditional macro cell towers. They are used to improve cellular coverage and capacity in areas with high user density or where macro cell coverage is insufficient. Our telecom engineers conduct a site survey to assess the indoor environment, identify coverage gaps, and determine the optimal locations for small cell deployment based on which appropriate small cell equipment is selected. Small cells are installed in strategic locations within the building, typically on ceilings, walls, or in dedicated small cell enclosures. They are integrated into the existing cellular network infrastructure, ensuring seamless connectivity and handoff between small cells and macro cell. Small cells require power and backhaul connectivity to the core network. Power-over-Ethernet (PoE) or dedicated power supplies may be used depending on the deployment scenario. This we have conducted in West Bengal and Jharkhand.

Outdoor small cells are compact, low-powered cellular radio access nodes designed to extend mobile network coverage and capacity in outdoor areas. They are typically deployed in urban, suburban, and rural environments where traditional macro cell towers may not provide sufficient coverage or capacity. Telecom engineers conduct a site survey to identify coverage gaps, assess RF propagation characteristics, and determine optimal locations for small cell deployment. Small cells are installed at strategic locations such as utility poles, streetlights, rooftops, or dedicated small cell poles. Installation may involve trenching for power and fiber optic connectivity, or using wireless backhaul solutions depending on the deployment scenario. Radio Frequency (RF) planning ensures that small cells operate on non-interfering frequencies with macro cells and neighboring small cells. This we have conducted in states like Jharkhand, Orissa and West Bengal.

FIBER TO THE HOME (FTTH)

FTTH utilizes optical fiber cables, which are made of glass or plastic fibers that transmit data using light signals. This allows for significantly higher bandwidth and faster data transmission speeds compared to traditional copper-based networks. The fiber distribution network consists of underground or aerial optical fiber cables that connect the central office to neighborhood nodes (distribution points) and ultimately to individual homes or buildings. FTTH infrastructure supports higher bandwidth demands and emerging technologies. This deployment stimulates economic growth by attracting businesses that require high-speed internet access and enabling telecommuting and remote work opportunities.

IN BUILDING WIRING (IBW)

This is the primary cabling infrastructure that connects various telecommunications rooms or distribution points within a building which typically consists of high-capacity cables that interconnect between floors or sections of the building. These cables run from the telecommunications rooms to individual workstations or devices within a specific floor or area. These are centralized locations within the building where networking equipment, patch panels, and cross-connects are housed. They serve as distribution points for the backbone and horizontal cabling systems. It supports high-speed internet access, local area networks (LANs), and wide area networks (WANs), enabling fast data transfer and communication within the building.

FUTURE PLANS OF THE COMPANY FOR INDIAN RAILWAYS

1. Kavach System Execution: Kavach is an advanced automated situational awareness system designed to enhance railway safety through its integrated train protection and collision prevention capabilities. This sophisticated system utilizes real-time data to monitor train movements and prevent potential accidents, ensuring a higher level of safety on the tracks. To complement Kavach's functionality, a robust radio communication network is being developed to facilitate clear and reliable signalling between trains, thereby minimizing the risk of miscommunication. Currently, efforts are focused on laying the necessary cables for the Kavach system, which is a critical step in establishing a seamless and effective safety infrastructure. This comprehensive approach aims to create a fail-safe environment, significantly reducing the likelihood of railway accidents and improving overall operational efficiency.

The company plays a significant role in this extensive project by laying the Optical Fibre Cable along the track. While Kavach projects are large in scale, they are currently contributing to three key projects that indirectly support the Kavach system. These include

- i. The Kota Project for Western Railway,
- ii. The 6 Quad Howrah project, and
- iii. The Tarkeshwar–Bishnupur project for Eastern Railway.

2. Expansion of Network Coverage: Extending telecom network coverage to remote and underserved railway routes ensures seamless communication between trains, signalling systems, and control centers. This initiative bridges connectivity gaps in historically underserved areas, enabling real-time data exchange, enhancing operational efficiency, and improving safety for passengers and freight. By integrating the entire rail network into a cohesive system, this expansion promotes reliability and supports safer, more efficient railway operations.

In the early 2000s, the adoption of quad cables, which featured four twisted pairs of copper wires, played a crucial role in expanding network coverage by improving the speed and capacity of telecommunication systems. These cables were instrumental in connecting households and businesses to broadband internet, supporting faster data transfer rates and offering more reliable communication compared to earlier technologies. As the demand for high-speed data services increased, a boom in optical fiber cables (OFC) emerged between 2005 and 2010, enabling even greater network expansion. Optical fiber cables offered significantly higher bandwidth and faster speeds over long distances, facilitating the growth of both local and long-range communication networks. This shift toward fiber-optic technology allowed the company to meet the rising demands for internet connectivity, video streaming, and other data-intensive services. The combination of quad cables and the subsequent rise of OFC revolutionized network infrastructure, providing broader coverage and more efficient, future-proof systems to accommodate the digital growth of the mid-2000s.

3. Deployment of Advanced Technologies: Implementing cutting-edge technologies like 5G and the Internet of Things (IoT) promises to revolutionize the rail industry by significantly enhancing operational efficiency, passenger safety, and service reliability. The integration of 5G technology will offer high-speed, low-latency communication, enabling real-time data transfer between trains, control centers, and infrastructure, which is crucial for rapid decision-making and operational coordination. IoT devices can be deployed throughout the rail network to continuously monitor and analyse various parameters, such as train performance, track conditions, and environmental factors, providing actionable insights that help in proactive maintenance and minimizing disruptions. AI algorithms can further leverage this data to optimize scheduling, predict potential issues before they occur, and improve safety protocols by detecting anomalies and automating responses to potential hazards. Together, these technologies will create a more responsive, efficient, and secure rail system, enhancing the overall travel experience and operational effectiveness.

The deployment of advanced technologies like IP-MPLS (Internet Protocol-Multiprotocol Label Switching) in radio access networks significantly transformed the way data was transmitted, particularly in the context of mobile and wireless communications. When integrated with radio access networks, IP-MPLS allowed the company to optimize bandwidth utilization, enhance the efficiency of network resources, and enable faster, more reliable communication across large-scale networks. The technology facilitated seamless convergence of voice, data, and video traffic over IP-based infrastructures, supporting the growing demand. By leveraging IP-MPLS, the company offer more consistent quality of service (QoS) for end-users, reduce latency, and quickly adapt to network congestion or failures.

4. Enhanced Passenger Experience: Seamless high-speed connectivity is key to transforming the passenger journey through advanced digital solutions. Real-time updates via mobile apps or digital displays ensure timely information on train schedules, delays, and platform changes, enhancing convenience. Integrated ticketing systems streamline the booking process, while onboard entertainment options like streaming and interactive content improve engagement and comfort. These innovations create a more efficient, connected, and user-friendly rail experience, addressing passenger needs and fostering a modern travel environment.

The installation of cable infrastructure and connectivity between stations, with a focus on safety and timeliness, played a crucial role in enhancing the overall passenger experience, particularly in rail and transit systems. By laying secure, high-quality cables between stations, the company was able to implement advanced communication networks, including real-time monitoring and safety systems, ensuring smoother, more efficient operations. This connectivity enabled the implementation of automatic train control systems, surveillance, and emergency response mechanisms that minimized risks and enhanced safety for passengers. Timeliness was also improved as advanced technologies allowed for more precise scheduling, instant updates on train arrivals, and automated communication of delays or disruptions, providing passengers with greater predictability. Furthermore, as Wi-Fi and connectivity options were integrated within the train stations and trains themselves, passengers were able to access real-time information, entertainment, and communication services, creating a more comfortable and enjoyable travel experience. Ultimately, laying robust cable infrastructure between stations, with an emphasis on safety and operational efficiency, contributed significantly to a more reliable, secure, and passenger-friendly transportation system.

By focusing on these future plans, we can not only enhance its service offerings to Indian Railways but also play a pivotal role in transforming the railway sector through technological innovation and sustainable development.

This policy was prepared through an intensive process of consultation within the Government and inputs from experts. It does not displace but builds on the earlier policies. It is a statement of India's commitment to making a positive contribution to international efforts. This is a response to our national commitment to a clean environment, mandated in the Constitution in Articles 48 A and 51 A (g), strengthened by judicial interpretation of Article 21. The dominant theme of this policy is that while conservation of environmental resources is necessary to secure livelihoods and well-being of all, the most secure basis for conservation is to ensure that people dependent on particular resources obtain better livelihoods from the fact of conservation, than from degradation of the resource. Following are the objectives of National Environmental Policy: —

- Conservation of Critical Environmental Resources
- Intra-generational Equity: Livelihood Security for the Poor
- Inter-generational Equity
- Integration of Environmental Concerns in Economic and Social Development
- Efficiency in Environmental Resource Use
- Environmental Governance
- Enhancement of resources for Environmental Conservation

Reasons for increase in Revenue for FY2025 are as below:

Greater number of tenders: During the FY2025 we participated in a greater number of tenders and simultaneously worked with efficiency, which helped us to achieve growth in revenue during FY2025. We also focused on small tenders which started and delivered within the FY2025.

Release of completion certificate: Projects which were under review for release of completion certificate, have been completed the process and certificate of completion received during FY2025. These also boosted the revenue for the financial year.

These factors taken together contributed in the increase in revenue for the financial year 2025 by 12.29% over the previous year.

Other Income: - Other income increased from Rs. 29.09 lakhs in FY2024 to Rs. 71.52 lakhs in FY2025 which is an increase of 145.82% over the FY2024. The increase is primarily due to increase in interest income received on Term Deposits by Rs. 20.08 lakhs, made by the company as a margin amount for availing Bank Guarantee, Profit on sale of car and commission income total Rs. 1.85 lakhs and Net of sundry balances been written off to an amount of Rs. 29.64 lakhs.

It has been analyzed that total expenses in proportion to total income constitute 82.44% in financial year 2024-25 in comparison to 90.46% in financial year 2023-24. As a proportion of total income, it is 51.57% in FY 2024-25 compared to 40.03% in FY 2023-24. This increase was primarily driven by a significant rise in installation and commissioning activities during FY 2024-25, which increased by 112.67% compared to the previous year 2024. Our project execution is mainly divided into two phases, the works contract phase and the installation phase. The latter involves higher material consumption, which substantially impacted the overall cost of materials in FY 2024-25.

(475.16) lakhs, compared to Rs. 9.88 lakhs in 2023-24, which is an increase of Rs. 485.03 lakhs. This change is primarily attributable to a rise in the closing stock of WIP goods by Rs. 475.15 lakhs, primarily due to accumulated value of civil works, equipment installed and job work performed for long time projects at multiple locations. Also, the increase is due to projects completed during the year but under process for completion certificate as at the year end. A Show Cause Cum Demand Notice referenced vide c. The Assessing Authority claims that the Assessee failed to report a turnover of ₹42,46,851, leading to a short tax payment of ₹2,44,194 for the period from April 1, 2017, to June 30, 2017.

In response to the notice dated March 25, 2021, regarding the alleged undisclosed turnover and tax shortfall for the assessment period from April 1, 2017, to June 30, 2017, the Assessee contested the accuracy of the claims made. the Assessee asserted that the reported figures of ₹42,46,851 in turnover and a tax shortfall of ₹2,44,194 are incorrect, likely arising from a misinterpretation or clerical error in their submitted returns. To support their compliance with the West Bengal Value Added Tax Act, 2003, the Assessee undertaken to provide comprehensive documentation including cash books, bank pass books, ledgers, trial balances, profit and loss accounts, tax invoices for purchases and sales, and transport documents for inter-state transactions. Illustration of the Book Building and Price Discovery Process:

Bidders should note that this example is solely for illustrative purposes and is not specific to the Issue. Bidders can bid at any price within the Price Band, it also excludes Anchor Investors. For instance, assume a Price Band of ₹20 to ₹ 24 per share, Issue size of 3,000 Equity Shares and receipt of five Bids from Bidders, details of which are shown in the table below. The illustrative book given below shows the demand for the Equity Shares of the Issuer at various prices and is collated from Bids received from various investors.

Bid Quantity	Bid Amount (₹)	Cumulative Quantity	Subscription
500	24	500	16.67%
1,000	23	1,500	50.00%
1,500	22	3,000	100.00%
2,000	21	5,000	166.67%
2,500	20	7,500	250.00%

The price discovery is a function of demand at various prices. The highest price at which the Issuer is able to Issue the desired number of Equity Shares is the price at which the book cuts off, i.e., ₹ 22.00 in the above example. The Issuer, in consultation with the BRLM, may finalise the Issue Price at or below such Cut-Off Price, i.e., at or below ₹ 22.00. All Bids at or above this Issue Price and cut-off Bids are valid Bids and are considered for allocation in the respective categories.

RESTRICTIONS ON FOREIGN OWNERSHIP OF INDIAN SECURITIES

Foreign investment in Indian securities is regulated through the Industrial Policy, 1991 of the Government of India and FEMA. While the Industrial Policy, 1991 prescribes the limits and the conditions subject to which foreign investment can be made in different sectors of the Indian economy, FEMA regulates the precise manner in which such investment may be made. Under the Industrial Policy, unless specifically restricted, foreign investment is freely permitted in all sectors of the Indian economy up to any extent and without any prior approvals, but the foreign investor is required to follow certain prescribed procedures for making such investment. The RBI and the concerned ministries/departments are responsible for granting approval for foreign investment. The Government has from time to time made policy pronouncements on Foreign Direct Investments (FDI) through press notes and press releases. The regulatory framework, over a period of time, thus, consists of acts, regulations, press notes, press releases, and clarifications among other amendments. The Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade, Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India (earlier known as Department of Industrial Policy and Promotion) (“DPIIT”), issued the Consolidated FDI Policy Circular of 2020 (“Consolidated FDI Policy”), which, with effect from October 15, 2020, consolidates and supersedes all previous press notes, press releases and clarifications on FDI issued by the DPIIT, which were in force and effect prior to October 15, 2020. The Consolidated FDI Policy will be valid and remain in force until superseded in totality or in part thereof and shall be subject to FEMA Non-Debt Instruments Rules. FDI in companies engaged in sectors/ activities which are not listed in the FDI Policy is permitted up to 100% of the paid-up share capital of such company under the automatic route, subject to compliance with certain prescribed conditions.

As per the Consolidated FDI Policy, FDI in companies engaged in electronics hardware manufacturing, which is the sector in which our Company operates, is permitted up to 100% of the paid-up share capital of such company under the automatic route. However, investments under the foreign direct investment route by entities of a country which shares land border with India or where the beneficial owner of an investment into India is situated in or is a citizen of any such country will require prior approval of the Government of India.

The transfer of shares between an Indian resident and a non-resident does not require the prior approval of the RBI, provided that: (i) the activities of the investee company are under the automatic route under the foreign direct investment policy and transfer does not attract the provisions of the SEBI Takeover Regulations; (ii) the non-resident shareholding is within the sectoral limits under the Consolidated FDI policy; and (iii) the pricing is in accordance with the guidelines prescribed by the SEBI/RBI. For further details of the aggregate limit for investments by NRIs and FPIs in our Company, please see chapter titled “Offer Procedure – Application by Eligible NRIs” and “Offer Procedure – Bid by Eligible FPIs including FIIs” on page 411 and 412 respectively of the Red Herring Prospectus.

As per the existing policy of the Government of India, OCBs cannot participate in this Offer. For further details, see chapter “Offer Procedure – Who can apply?” beginning on page 403 of the Red Herring Prospectus.

On October 17, 2019, Ministry of Finance, Department of Economic Affairs, notified the FEMA NDI Rules, which had replaced the Foreign Exchange Management (Transfer and Issue of Security by a Person Resident Outside India) Regulations 2017. Foreign investment in this Offer shall be on the basis of, and in accordance with the FEMA NDI Rules. Further, in accordance with Press Note No. 3 (2020 Series), dated April 17, 2020 issued by the DPIIT and the Foreign Exchange Management (Non- debt Instruments) Amendment Rules, 2020 which came into effect from April 22, 2020, any investment, subscription, purchase or sale of equity instruments by entities of a country which shares land border with India or where the beneficial owner of an investment into India is situated in or is a citizen of any such country (Restricted Investors), will require prior approval of the Government, as prescribed in the Consolidated FDI Policy and the FEMA Rules. Further, in the event of transfer of ownership of any existing or future foreign direct investment in an entity in India, directly or indirectly, resulting in the beneficial ownership falling within the aforesaid restriction/ purview, such subsequent change in the beneficial ownership will also require approval of the Government. Pursuant to the Foreign Exchange Management (Nondebt Instruments) (Fourth Amendment) Rules, 2020 which came into effect on December 8, 2020, a multilateral bank or fund, of which India is a member, shall not be treated as an entity of a particular country nor shall any country be treated as the beneficial owner of the investments of such bank or fund in India.

In terms of the FEMA NDI Rules and Consolidated FDI Policy, a person resident outside India may make investments into India, subject to certain terms and conditions. For further details, see chapter titled “Offer Procedure” beginning on page 396 of the Red Herring Prospectus. Each Bidder should seek independent legal advice about its ability to participate in the Bid/Offer.
